U.S. Demands 15 Per Cent Cut in Wheat Crop for '34

Secretary Wallace Sets Figure, Not Waiting on Export Pact.

London Accord Expected Today

Reduction Requirement Was No Surprise to Trade Centers.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wallace yesterday announced that a reduction of 15 per cent in the seeded acreage will be required of farmers joining in the Government's wheat plan.

He made his announcement without waiting for final action on the London wheat agreement, explaining that he expected approval of a supplement to the general agreement tomorrow.

This supplementary agreement provides the method under which four chief exporting nations will divide an aggregate export limitation of 560,000,000 bushels during the year which begins August 1.

Wallace said neither Argentina nor the United States had signed this supplement, but that this country would approve it finally as soon as representatives of Argentina sign it.

Wallace estimated the 15 per cent cut in acreage to be required of farmers in order to become eligible for up to $136,000,000 in benefit payments would mean a cut of approximately 9,600,000 acres in this country's wheat acreage. Based on past averages, this would reduce the production of wheat from the average in recent years, excluding this year's production of 124,000,000 bushels.

The 15 per cent requirement will apply only to wheat plantings for harvest next year. Decision on reduction of the 1935 acreage will be made a year hence. The reduction in acreage is to be made from the average acreage of farmers joining in the plan from the base period for the years 1930, 1931 and 1932, with some exceptions to provide a four or five year base in instances where the three-year base is considered "unfair."

Argentina Asks Raise.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 28 (AP).—A responsible government source today said the administration had cabled instructions to Thomas le Breton, Ambassador at London, that he obtain a 3,000,000 quintal increase in Argentina's export quota before signing the international wheat pact.

The informant asserted that Argentina is entitled to this increase, which is equivalent to 11,023,000 bushels, under the terms of a separate accord entered into between the "big four" wheat exporting nations—the United States, Canada, Australia and Argentina.

Boat Swamped; Pair Imperiled

Third Youth Swims Five Miles in Rough Lake to Save Mates.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 28 (U.P.).—Glenn Smith, of Muskegon, Mich., tonight swam 5 miles through choppy Lake Michigan waters to summon aid for two companions, lashed to their overturned sailboat.

The Michigan City Coast Guard set out to rescue the pair.

His companions, Smith said, were Lawrence Carlson, of Muskegon, and a friend of Carlson, whose name he did not know.

"We had been out five or six hours," Smith said, "when our boat overturned. I told them I didn't know whether I could make it but I would try. It was a cold swim and I was nearly numb when I finally reached land. I notified the Michigan City Coast Guard station and they sent a boat out immediately to find my companions."

Carlson and Smith had made the trip to Chicago on their vacation and were en route to their homes with a third companion.

Rain and Wind Break New York Heat Wave

Suit Against Actress Will Be Sensational

Los Angeles, Aug. 28 (AP).—Sensational testimony in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Marian Y. Read, Oakland society woman, against Claire Windsor, film actress, was promised by attorneys for both sides tonight as they prepared for the start of trial here Wednesday.

Allies Support Austria In Building Huge Army

Berlin, Aug. 28 (U.P.).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler has embarked on a new scheme to minimize the overlap in the Nazi regime's machinery and tighten his dictatorial control on Germany, it was indicated today.

His recent conferences with Nazi leaders at Berchtesgaden, were regarded by observors as presaging vital changes in the party structure, tending to reduce overlapping bureaus.

Acts to Increase Strength.

Steps already taken toward strengthening his position include:

1. Revision of the rules of legislative procedure to curb the law-making prerogatives of individual members of the cabinet.
2. Withdrawal of the economic commissars.
3. Dissolution of the militant small Retailers' Protective Association.
4. Dissolution of the auxiliary police.
5. Formation of a Senate of "Nazi Elders"—corresponding to the Grand Council of Fascism in Italy.

Surprised at Power.

It lately has become increasingly plain that Hitler himself has been surprised at the ease with which he has Nazified Germany. Contrary to his expectation that after the party seized technical leadership last January he would have to fight and maneuver for a year or more before he had consolidated the Nazis in power, Hitler has observed all opposition melt swiftly away in the first six months of his regime.

All sections of economic, political and cultural life seem competing with one another to declare their allegiance to his regime. While gratifying to the chancellor, as he has intimated, it simultaneously brought up the problems of what to do with the Nazis' so-called heavy artillery which he set up in the first six months of the revolution to Nazify the nation.

Minister Claims Powers Consent to Great Reserve Force.

Kilb, Austria, Aug. 28 (U.P.).—War Minister Karl Vaugoin was reported to have declared here tonight that Austria, with the approval of the allied powers, is planning to create a powerful military reserve corps.

His plan was to train 20,000 men a year in armies of 10,000 each, twice a year.

Vaugoin was said to have stated a decree organizing the first corps of 10,000 men would be issued within a week. He added that gradually, and voluntarily, the projected total of 20,000 men trained each year would be expanded to a system of universal military service for all able-bodied men.

Warns Austrian Nazis.

Vienna, Aug. 28 (AP).—Austrian Nazis crossing the border to join the Hitler legions in Germany will find a vastly increased Austrian army ready to deal with them if they should return, Karl Vaugoin, minister of war, told an audience at Kilb today.

In this connection the semiofficial newspaper Reichspost, drawing attention to the need for stronger protection on the Austro-German frontier, reported that large groups of Austrian Nazis are easily crossing into Germany. As an example, the newspaper added, a group of 78 Nazis from Styria and Carinthia had slipped across the border near Salzburg and arrived at Berchtesgaden, Germany, in a body.

The government recently ordered the revocation of citizenship and the confiscation of property of Austrians guilty of such unauthorized departure. As an additional measure, 300 heimwehr (home guard) are being added to the border patrol in the Salzburg district.

Strikers Attack Cleaning Plants

Police Repulse 2 Groups of Labor Rioters in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Aug. 28 (AP).—Police lines abandoned because a settlement was reported imminent, strikers and sympathizers today attacked a plant of one of Philadelphia's largest cleaning and dyeing concerns in the worst outbreak of a three-week strike.

About 300 persons stoned the plant of the Virginia Snow Co., breaking windows and damaging motor vehicles, and attempted to storm it, but were driven off with live steam. A score were slightly scalded or hurt.

Strikers and sympathizers later attacking the cleaning and dyeing plant of Bornot, Inc., breaking windows, were routed by police. Seven were arrested in the two riots.

Corporal Accused Of Holding Secrets

Fort Sherman, Canal Zone, Aug. 28 (AP).—Seven witnesses testified today in the court-martial of Corporal Ralph Osman, charged with possessing military secrets. The testimony of the accusing officer, Col. Clarence G. Bunker, the post commander, was given behind closed doors.

The prosecution informed Col. J. V. Heidt, the president of the court, that it would endeavor to convict Osman on circumstantial evidence. Eight secret documents were read in closed court.

The witness identified the typewriter on which Osman was alleged to have transcribed the documents.

Flaming Gas Kills Worker; 18 Burned

Whiting, Ind., Aug. 28 (AP).—A sudden gust of flaming gas enveloped a maintenance crew at a Standard Oil cracking unit today, burning 1 fatally and injuring 18 others.

Three were reported in serious condition. They are Andrew Garbor, of Gary; Albert Walzak, of Whiting, and A. R. Weiss, of Huntington Park, Calf. Garbor and Walzak were workmen, Weiss a representative of a West Coast pump company.

New Envoy to Sweden Gets Royal Reception

Stockholm, Aug. 28 (AP).—Laurence Steinhardt, new United States Minister to Sweden, today presented his credentials to King Gustav in an eighteenth century ceremony which included a trip to the palace in a "glass" carriage.

He was the fifth American minister to be received by the present monarch.

Court Orders Detroit Banks Show Records

Grand Jury to Examine Books After Couzens' "Iniquity" Charge.

Detroit, Aug. 28 (AP).—A call for the records of two Detroit trust companies went out today from the one-man grand jury, following charges by Senator James Couzens (Republican), Michigan, that trust company officials had "acted iniquitously" preceding Michigan's banking holiday.

The call, issued by Judge Harry B. Keidan, the one-man jury, interrupted testimony of Arthur J. Lacy, Senator Couzens' personal attorney, who scored New York bankers as "cold-blooded" and declared he did not believe there was anything criminal in a charge made by Couzens against one trust company.

Conservators to Appear.

Conservators of the two companies, the Union Guardian Trust Co., and the Detroit Trust Co., must appear, Judge Keidan said, with all records. Harry J. Fox, conservator for the Detroit Trust Co., was called to court and given the order.

Couzens had declared the Detroit Trust Co. and the First National Bank-Detroit "switched funds" between themselves to increase their cash positions, and charged the Union Guardian Trust Co. with "jockeying" the $10,000,000 childrens' fund of Michigan, founded by Couzens, out of $200,000 deposited there.

Assails New Yorkers.

"The New York banks," Lacy declared today, "were cold-blooded before the national bank holiday When loans matured, they sold them out. If all the country had done the same thing, it would have brought on a national banking collapse one year earlier, I believe.

"There are ten times as many deposits as there is currency, and all banks can not be 80 or 90 per cent liquid. When New York closed out its customers and got its money first, it was like a bank run. The first in line got theirs and left the rest holding the bag. The New York bankers preached leniency to the rest of the country while they were being severe themselves."

Pact Averts Shut-Down Of New York Cleaners

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—Threatened shut-down of 25,000 retail cleaners and dyers shops was averted tonight when the contending factions signed a temporary agreement.

The settlement, reached after a 12-hour conference with Henry F. Wolff, chairman of the city NRA complaint bureau, as mediator, provides that wholesale cleaners may receive one-third of the retail price of cleaning a garment, with a minimum of 25 cents.

Woman Doctor Held For Knife Murder

San Diego, Calif., Aug. 28 (AP). Charged with the knife murder of Miss Ann Kiffe, Dr. Virginia Wilson was arraigned today at the county hospital, where she is being held in the psychopathic ward. Preliminary hearing was set for September 5.

With staring eyes and tense body, Dr. Wilson gave no sign of understanding when the judge read the warrant.

Decision on His Detention in Athens to Show Strength of Case.

Athens, Aug. 28 (AP).—A test of the United States' case against Samuel Insull is expected tomorrow when the Athens Appeal Court decides whether the former Chicago utilities operator will continue in detention pending extradition proceedings.

Another effort to extradite Insull on a new indictment charging violation of the bankruptcy act began Saturday. He has been detained since in a nursing home.

Among Insull's visitors have been Mme. Coyomdjoglow, Greek wife of a Bagdad merchant. With a small son, she has lived in the Insull Hotel.

Before her departure for Italy August 16, Mrs. Insull requested the Greek woman to look after her husband, in anticipation of reopening of the case against him.

Greek authorities contend the appeal court tomorrow will have not only a right to judge the merits of the extradition application, but to enter into the substance of the case. This has been questioned by Forest Harness, representative of the United States Attorney General.

Brother Maps Battle.

Toronto, Aug. 28 (AP).—A side issue of the United States' extradition case against Martin J. Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, will be fought out in court September 8.

An application has been made for leave to appeal against a judgment of Justice A. C. Kingstone, who refused to order a commission to hear evidence in Chicago.

Insull's Son Surrenders.

Chicago, Aug. 28 (AP).—Samuel Insull, jr., surrendered before Federal Judge John G. Page today and posted $10,000 on an indictment charging him and 10 others with transferring $2,500,000 of the assets of Corporation Securities Co. in anticipation of bankruptcy.

The indictment is the same as that on which Federal authorities are seeking to extradite his father, Samuel Insull, sr., from Greece for trial.

Capital Officer Killed in Crash

Montreal, Aug. 28 (AP).—Commander W. F. Newton, 60, U. S. N., retired, resident of Washington, was killed near here tonight when the automobile Mrs. Newton was driving crashed a tree.

Mrs. Newton was taken to a hospital suffering from shock. Commander Newton died in an ambulance.

The Navy Department said last night that Commander Newton was registered on the inactive list. A call to his home, 1511 Thirtieth street northwest, brought no response. The Navy register listed him as assigned to the Hydrographic Office.

Head Slashed, Long Reveals Knife Attack

Milwaukee, Aug. 28 (U.P.).—With his trousers drawn over green silk pajamas, Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana, took reporters into his confidence tonight and told his version of how he happened to receive a cut an inch long over his left eye.

"Three or four men," Long said, attacked him in the washroom of a club on Long Island, New York, Saturday night. He was a guest at a party at the club, he said.

But Here's Another Version.

The newspaper inquiries were the result of a version of the affair published in New York which attributed the cut to the right fist of a New York architectural engineer.

The engineer, according to the New York version, took offense at Long's manner of approach when Long entered the washroom of the fashionable Sands Point Bath Club. He satisfied his anger, the story goes, by soundly pummeling the senator from Louisiana.

Long told newspapermen he had been warned repeatedly that he would be attacked by a gang and that he was glad his injuries were not more serious.

Hunting for Assailants.

His statement follows:

"I have avoided getting out any statement on the occurence at Long Island until there were newspaper reports about the matter which do not name the assailants. Unable to find out who they were, which I have tried to do all day, I am now giving the matter as it occurred, as far as I can.

"On Saturday night, persons connected with the music composers and publishers asked me to attend the charity benefit on Long Island. I at first declined, but later in the afternoon consented. I had been there some 20 minutes or more when I walked into the washroom.

"Struck From Behind."

"Just as I faced the basin and the wall, someone struck me from behind and upon turning three or four men covered me. I saw one strike at my head with a knife or something sharp and I ducked so that it grazed my forehead. One man was locking the door, but I stumbled low through him and managed to wriggle clear.

"I felt blood coming down my face from where it was cut. Someone connected with the business met me—also I called some of my friends. We rushed back to the washroom but all the persons had escaped and no one had seen them to identify one of them.

"I employed a taxicab and returned to the Hotel New Yorker. By the time I reached there the wound had stopped bleeding and it was not hurting.

Doctor Dresses Wound.

"I called a doctor, who dressed the wound and said I was not hurt to amount to anything.

"Throughout Sunday and today we have tried to find the persons who did the ganging.

"Except for a cut scar high over the left eye, nothing remains to show for Saturday's ganging.

"I have been repeatedly threatened. Any number of warnings have been given, even by column writers, that some such thing would occur to me sooner or later. I was lucky to have escaped with such a trivial injury and am gratified."

Long was asked what he thought of the NRA program. He replied by asking:

"What do you think about it?"

Long is scheduled to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention tomorrow morning. He is an honorary member of the organization.

Roosevelt Orders Loans To Help NRA Members Expand Work and Pay

Coal Operators Accept Unions; Code Imminent

Path Is Cleared as Labor, Bituminous Men Compromise.

Peace settled over the bituminous coal industry yesterday as the National Recovery Administration launched a Nation-wide drive to bring to the support of the recovery program the purchasing power of the Nation's consumers.

Agreement on essentials of a code for the industry was announced by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson following another night conference with representatives of the mine operators. Labor had accepted the code basis earlier.

"Committees of the United Mine Workers and of the operators in the Appalachian bituminous field have reached the basis of an agreement covering the principal points which this administration is willing to recommend to the President," Gen. Johnson announced.

Declares Path Cleared.

"This clears the way to the preparation of an acceptable code and no announcement of the provisions can be made until there is an agreement on the actual wording."

The "basis of agreement" is a compromise. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, had asked for a $5 daily minimum wage. The operators wanted $3.84. There was a compromise, too, on hours, but announcement of the provisions was not made. Labor asks a 36-hour week.

One of the major aspects of the agreement, however, was in the fact that the agreement provided recognition of the union by operators who heretofore have been steadfastly antiunion.

Tension Is Eased.

The agreement also served to ease a growing tenseness due to feeling of labor over the extra language incorporated in the collective bargaining clause of the automobile code.

The labor advisory board emphasized its previous declaration that the language of the automobile code was not going to be accepted as a precedent. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, a member of the board, said that not only would the board fight inclusion of such language in the coal or other codes, but would seek to have it eliminated from the automobile code.

Yielded to Johnson.

Labor representatives were said to have accepted the extra language in the automobile code because Gen. Johnson was reported to have promised the manufacturers they could insert the language which would make it plain the recovery law did not make union membership mandatory.

Recognition of the unions by the coal men represented a tremendous

Cuban Reforms Threaten Rift

Two Cabinet Members Say They Will Quit Unless Cespedes Acts.

The powerful ABC revolutionary society will withdraw Secretary of the Treasury Joaquin Martinez Saenz and Minister of Justice Carlos Saladrigas unless this is done, it is said.

It was reported today the president had not planned to alter the constitution until after the general election, February 24, 1934. The Nationalist party has opposed modifications.

Meanwhile, President de Cespedes was preparing a decree to set up the consultative commission to replace Congress, which he dissolved last week.

He was expected also to issue a decree dissolving the old political parties—Liberal, Conservative and Popular—which gave former President Gerardo Machado virtually unanimous support.

The doors of the Banco Comercial de Cuba, some of whose stock was held by former President Gerado Machado, were closed today when treasury and interior department officials intervened after a run had started.

Troops guarded the bank.

Deputy Sheriff Beaten At Foreclosure Sale

Milbank, S. Dak., Aug. 28 (AP).—Sheriff W. W. Wilson was disarmed and his deputy, John Nord, beaten at a mortgage foreclosure sale at the Grant County Fair Grounds today after the deputy had fired a tear-gas gun in the face of one spectator.

The crowd dispersed immediately after the trouble. Its leaders were being sought by the sheriff.

Moley Denies He Quit Over Tiff With Hull

"Not Aware of Conflict," He Says; Will Finish Report on Crime.

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—Prof. Raymond Moley, one of the President's closest advisers, said today reports he resigned as Assistant Secretary of State because of a disagreement with Secretary Hull were "interesting, but just not true."

"I certainly am not aware of any conflict, except that in a big administration such as the one in Washington there always are differences of opinion," said Moley. "But, honestly, I don't see any important conflict at all."

Moley resigned to become editor of a magazine called by its publisher, Vincent Astor, friend of Roosevelt, "an adventure in national political journalism."

Rather Be an Editor.

"I'd ten times rather do this than hold a public office," said Moley.

Although his resignation becomes effective September 1, Moley said he would complete his report on crime and racketeering undertaken at the President's request. He also will continue to teach at Columbia University.

Astor also denied a rift with Secretary Hull was responsible for Moley's retirement.

Plans Months Old.

"For months we have been working over this thing," he said, referring to the magazine. "The idea began in March. We even had our searchers looking for a daily paper and once we thought we had one—in Boston or Washington."

Meanwhile, Hull said he had not "at any time offered the slightest suggestion to the President or Mr. Moley relative to any change in the official status of the latter."

He wished Moley success.

Moley Aid May Quit.

Omaha, Nebr., Aug. 28 (AP).—Arthur Mullen, jr., of Omaha, assistant to Prof. Raymond Moley in the State Department before Moley resigned the post, said tonight he "felt sure" he would leave the department but didn't know just where else he might be placed. Mullen made his comment after a long distance telephone talk with Moley. He asserted he "would like" to go with Moley on the new magazine Moley is to edit.

'Dad' Stone, Father Of Comedian, Dies

Freeport, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP). Louis P. Stone, 85, father of Fred Stone, died at his home last night.

He was a resident 30 years and was known as "Daddy Stone." He took his first ride in an airplane when 79 and landed his first tarpon at 80.

Funeral arrangements have not been made. He is survived by two sons, Fred and Paul.

Stone was born in Rockville, Ind., and was cradled in a covered wagon. His parents were among Nebraska's pioneers.

Building Projects Will Be Speeded to Give More Jobs.

President Talks With Montagu Norman on Stabilization.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 28 (AP).—President Roosevelt speeded up his national recovery campaign today and then listened over the tea cups to trials of international banking leaders for foreign exchange stabilization.

He directed Jesse Jones, Reconstruction Finance Corporation chairman, to work out immediately a program for extending temporary credit through banks to NRA members to tide them over the sudden expansion of work and wages.

He decided in a talk with Secretary Ickes upon new projects to be financed through the $3,300,000,000 public works fund to make more jobs.

To Hasten Works Projects.

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Ickes determined that this tremendous job-making effort must go ahead at a greater rate. They seriously considered tonight putting a forfeiture clause in future allotments, to declare them revoked if work was not started in a specified time.

The President sent Jones hurrying back to Washington to get Government aids busy on a proposal to assure credit for employers who are subscribing to his new deal to spread jobs and increase pay.

This is one of the 50 or more ways for aiding the Roosevelt campaign for higher commodity prices and wages, which some describe as inflation.

Mr. Roosevelt realizes that in some instances hardships are resulting from adherence to recovery agreements. He wants the employes to be sure of credit to span the period between increased overhead and receipt of higher returns for goods.

The credit expansion movement is to be undertaken through the banking system, but whether the Federal Reserve system will be used or the Government negotiate directly with banks has not been determined.

As mysterious as ever, Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, came here late today accompared by George Harrison, Federal Reserve governor of New York. Mr. Norman declined to talk before entering the summer White House. It is assumed Norman and Harrison have been discussing the advisability of stabilizating currency in foreign exchange.

Sees Ickes and Farley.

They arrived late in the day for tea to which others not connected with official life were invited. Afterward Mr. Roosevelt chatted with them alone.

Tonight, he was concluding his busy day in another conference with Secretary Iskes about personnel of the oil planning and conservation committee. Also, he received Postmaster General Farley.

Bridge Over 80-Foot Gorge Will Be Built to Rescue Deer

Animal Trapped on Ledge in One of State Parks in New York.

Watkins Glen, N. Y., Aug. 28 (U.P.). The Finger Lakes State Park Commission tonight ordered construction of a bridge over an 80-foot gorge in Watkins Glen State Park in order to save the life of a deer, imprisoned on a ledge for three days.

For the first time since the frightened creature reached its place of imprisonment, food was lowered over the cliff today.

Waiting until the deer had reached one end of its rockbound prison, Game Protector William Uck lowered some sweet corn and a bucket of water, taking care not to frighten the prisoner and cause it to plunge 35 feet into a creek.

An attempt to lasso the deer failed when it, becoming frightened, dashed to the opposite end of the ledge.

Herbert Blanche, general superintendent of the Finger Lakes Commission, ordered construction of the bridge be started tomorrow after having visited the scene.

Inverted Plane Rips Car Top; No One Hurt

London, Aug. 28 (AP).—An air-circus plane, flying upside down, struck a car at Aberdeen, Scotland, yesterday.

The roof was ripped off the automobile, and the plane crashed in a river. Both the pilot and the car's occupants escaped.

Airport Here Worst in U.S., Gatty Asserts

Even Siberia Boasts of Better Facilities, Expert Says.

U. S. Official, Pointing to Dangers, Reveals Outside Ridicule.

"Washington's airport is the worst in the United States in any town of more than 15,000 population."

This is the statement of Harold Gatty, around-the-world flyer and one of America's leading authorities on landing fields.

"The Washington Post is doing a service not only to the national Capital, but to the Nation, in pointing out the failings of the Washington-Hoover Airport," Gatty declared.

"In size, condition, obstructions and approach, the field has shortcomings. From the point of view of national dignity, it is a disgrace.

"It has a bad reputation among flyers. They all dislike coming here. Many who do visit Washington land at the military grounds or come down in a nearby city.

Better in Siberia.

"In Siberia, where there is no inspection of fields, the fields are better than the Hoover-Washington. One can't make a comparison between our field and that at Moscow.

"There is the makings of a good field in the Hoover-Washington groups. But the military road would have to be eliminated, obstructions in the Government's experimental farm would have to be removed and proper drainage would have to be provided.

"There is no more excuse for bad weather to tie up an airport than a seaport or a railroad terminal. A flying field should be a haven of aviators in bad weather. But it is pretty bad to have to come down on wet soil and run the chance of nosing over. Fields should have drainage systems which will not impair their landing surfaces."

Maj. Cone Favors Move.

Maj. J. Carroll Cone, assistant director for aeronautic development, U. S. Department of Commerce, declared his fullest sympathy for any move to improve the airport.

"Considered in the light of the volume of traffic which it is called upon to handle, Washington's airport is probably the worst in the United States," he stated.

"Location of an airport and the type of management are not problems for the Department of Commerce to solve. But the department is deeply interested in airport development throughout the country, and is particularly concerned over the unfortunate situation in Washington.

"Any civilian pilot who has ever landed at Washington-Hoover can testify to the tragic need for better landing facilities here. It was reported at one time that Col. Lindbergh circled Washington-Hoover for nearly a half hour and then had to land at another field.

Many Prefer Bolling Field.

"Many other pilots have landed at Bolling Field in preference to Washington-Hoover, although their planes can not be serviced there.

"The conditions at Washington-Hoover have been thrown into the faces of many of our airport specialists who visit all parts of the country, giving advice on airport development. Frequently when a suggestion is made for improvement of an air terminal, its sponsors will reply: 'What about the Washington-Hoover airport in the Department's home town? Ours isn't like that.'

"Washington-Hoover has been used in the past for Washington's air terminal because there was no other airport to use. But it is admittedly inadequate and its continued use is out of the question."

Maj. Cone for the last 16 years has been identified prominently with commercial and military aeronautics. He served as an instructor and pursuit pilot in France. He has owned 16 planes.

Edgerton Cooperates.

Cooperating with the Washington Post campaign, James C. Edgerton, executive aid to the Assistant Secretary of Commerce, said:

"An adequate airport for Washington is absolutely essential to further progress in air transportation as it affects the Nation's Capital. Airline operators and private flyers are hampered by the limited facilities now available. In fact, personal observation of landings and take-offs by large transport planes reveals imminent danger. It is imperative that our airport facilities be improved at once."

Matsuoka as Envoy Rumored and Denied

Tokyo (Tuesday), Aug. 29 (AP).—The newspaper Jiji Shimpo today gave prominence to a report that the foreign office would offer Yosuke Matsuoka the ambassador's post at Washington. The foreign office declared the report was "entirely without foundation."

Yosuke Matsuoka was the head of the Japanese delegation which walked out of the League of Nations last spring when the league adopted a report criticizing Japan's actions in Manchuria.

The group is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Leaders said manufacturers had declined to discuss working conditions and wages.

Blind "Uncle Bill" Hears Nats Win

Aged Fan and Wife on Time Always for Post's Broadcasting.

The Minders eke out a meager living selling newspapers. They don't worry much, though, as long as the Nats are on top.

"I don't go out to the park here, because they stick me out in the bleachers," "Uncle Bill" said yesterday. "I want to be up there where I can hear the ball hit the catchers mit."

"Graham McNamee, Ted Husing and those other announcers have nothing on this fellow Atchison, who announces for The Post. He's so dead in earnest he just makes me see that old ball game," he said.

Lewis Blamed In Code Delay

(Associated Press.)

Claude E. Pearcy, president of the Progressive Miners of America, said last night that John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, was causing the delay in adoption of an NRA code for the bituminous coal industry by trying to force recognition of his union in the Appalachian district.

Pearcy said he was told the main difficulty in the way of completing the code was an attempt by Mr. Lewis to organize the Appalachian field workers by reaching an agreement with the operators of that field.

"A procedure of this sort would be necessary," said Pearcy, "if section 7 of the NRA which provides that men have the right to belong to an organization of their own choice was to be evaded. On adoption of a coal code when approved by the President, this section, with whatever stipulations are agreed to, will become operative.

"Evidently if Lewis and these operators make an agreement, then the miners in these fields would have no choice in the matter, and would be forced to join Lewis' union despite the fact that the code was later adopted, thereby nullifying the intent of section 7."

Hull Back; Moley's Successor Awaited

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hull came back yesterday from a two weeks' vacation in Virginia, but did not visit the State Department.

Today the Secretary will face several problems, including the matter of a successor to Prof. Raymond Moley. At his office it was said no thought had been given the matter.

How soon Moley's successor will be named by President Roosevelt was not indicated, but it was believed there would be several conferences between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull beforehand.

Chicago Milk Fight Decision Awaited Today

(Associated Press.)

Justice O'Donohue, of the District Supreme Court, said yesterday he would "make every effort" to hand down a decision at 10 a. m. today on the Government's motion to dismiss the plea of Chicago "wayside milk dealers" for an injunction restraining Secretary Wallace from enforcing the Chicago milk-shed agreement.

Attacking the constitutionality of the agriculture adjustment act, the Economy Dairy Co., of Norwood Park, Ill., asked the restraining order.

Neil Burkinshaw, Washington attrney, appealed for the dairy company at a hearing on a plea by James L. Fly, special Assistant Attorney General, for dismissal of the petition. He said the Economy Milk Co. was a typical "wayside milk dealer" of Chicago, purchasing milk at 3½ cents per quart and retailing it at 6½ cents.

Asserting the agreement necessitated these dealers raising their price to 10 cents, Burkinshaw insisted the act was unconstitutional on the grounds that price-fixing could be done only under a constitutional amendment.

"We feel it is unjust," he said, "to make wayside dealers arbitrarily a profit of about 6½ cents per quart of milk when the poor of Chicago call for their milk, pay cash for it and carry it away."

Wayside dealers, he said, would be forced out of business because people would no longer "call and pay cash" when they could have it delivered to their door at the same price.

Fly contended that provision for hearings were contained in the act and that the wayside dealer had no reason for complaint because the penalty has not been enforced to date.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 28 (AP).—Police were called today to quell the first disorder since more than 400 garment makers went on strike here four days ago.

Mexico Ready To Give Trade Favors to U. S.

Will Make Concessions on Tariff in Negotiations for New Treaty.

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

Mexico City, Aug. 28.—For-reaching tariff concessions will be made by Mexico in reciprocal trade negotiations with the United States.

In return for such treaty provisions, the Mexican government will expect more favorable tariff treatment in the United States on vegetables, fruit and cattle, it was indicated.

These facts were revealed when it became known that a draft of the reciprocal trade treaty which Mexico plans to propose as the basis of negotiations in Washington is nearing completion by a committee of experts here.

The success of the negotiations will have a direct bearing on the Pan-American Conference at Montevideo, Uruguay, in December, in the opinion of the highest Mexican authorities, who are supporting formation of a Pan-American economic bloc against other economic combines, as a defensive move in the world trade war.

Mexican officials, however, do not minimize the difficulties before them in reaching a reciprocal trade pact with the United States. Hence, they are willing to go far in tariff concessions.

Aside from the three items mentioned, Mexico also has an annual exportable surplus of sugar amounting to about 100,000 tons. Most of this is sold in England now.

Pennsylvania Lines' Passenger Agent Dies

He was in the railroad service 43 years. In 1913 he was appointed division passenger agent with headquarters at Harrisburg, and later served at Baltimore.

Eastman Requests New Freight Cars

(Associated Press.)

Pointing to the "anticipation of a continued increase in traffic," Joseph B. Eastman, Federal coordinator of transportation, yesterday requested the executives of class 1 railroads to canvass their freight car equipment with a view to replacing worn out and obsolete cars.

Eastman said that although many thousands of freight cars have been retired during the past three years, thousands more whose period of service has expired still are occupying yard and storage tracks.

In addition to lifting a burden from the carriers and decreasing "unnecessary hazards," Eatman said, replacement of worn out and obsolete cars also would "contribute to the success" of the "administration's emergency program" by increasing employment.

Oregon's Fire Toll 18 Million

4,000 Fight Flames That Have Swept Forests for Two Weeks.

Portland, Oreg., Aug. 28 (AP).—Mountainous billows of smoke hid treacherous flames today on a 40-mile front in Northwestern Oregon as moisture from the ocean permitted 4,000 fire fighters to renew their attack on the most devastating conflagration that ever swept the State's forest.

For 14 days the flames had ridden high winds over thousands of acres of fine timber. Officials have estimated the loss at $18,000,000.

Hudreds of men, many of the Civilian Conservation Corps, have taxed brawn and heart in battling the flames. The gales threw great flaming brands miles ahead of the main fires into the tinder of fir needles and pitch and other trees exploded like gunpowder to start new fires.

If favorable weather continues, officers believe the menace soon will be under control, but should the wind raise again, new disaster would follow.

Marylanders to Befriend Puerto Rican "Neighbors"

Move Launched as Island Is in Same Land Bank District.

(Associated Press.)

An ingenious geographical grouping which several years ago placed the Island of Puerto Rico in the same land bank system with Maryland has brought about a move for the organization of a Baltimore "committee of friends of Puerto Rico."

Object of the plan outlined by Miss Lavinia Engle, a member of the Maryland Legislature, is to present an "integrated attack" upon Puerto Rico banking, economic and welfare problems.

Part of Eastern Shore.

By a "geographical miracle," Miss Engle explained, Puerto Rico had become "the southern end of the Eastern Shore" of Maryland.

When the Federal Land Bank was organized, Puerto Rico was placed in the Baltimore District, and the Home Loan Bank and Internal Revenue followed the same course.

"Maryland paid scant attention to this grouping until after the Puerto Rican hurricane," said Miss Engle. "Then with defaulting bonds and mortgages, the island became a banking liability to Baltimore."

She said the entire country should become more "conscious of Puerto Rico as a part of itself," and suggested the island could be more closely tied into the various activities of the Federal Government.

Tydings Heads Committee.

She urged linking the betterment of Puerto Ricans with the financial rehabilitation program.

At Miss Engle's request, Mrs. Dooley, who has been regarded as likely to be appointed immigration commissioner of Puerto Rico, described the "overpopulation, low wage, poor housing, abject poverty" there.

Search for Missing Seamen, Lost in Storm, Reveals Nothing

Forgotten men.

Men who went down to the sea in small ships a few days ago and never came back—probably never will.

They were cruising when last Thursday's storm broke. An imperiled shore population had its own worries. Little was known of these luckless individuals out in a roaring sea. For the time being they were forgotten.

But when the flood receded President Roosevelt himself remembered three.

They were Pierre Irving, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Dupont Irving, of Irvington, N. Y.; Walter and Charles Niles, 23 and 16, respectively, sons of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Niles of Southampton, Long Island.

Sailed for Nantucket.

They sailed from Barnegat, N. J. for Nantucket, R. I., August 20 in their 23-foot sloop, Postscript. That was the last heard from them. Coast Guard officials yesterday feared there might be others in the same predicament.

When President Roosevelt remembered them he immediately ordered one of the greatest searching expeditions ever organized.

Coast Guard and Navy planes swept the area where it was hoped their little sloop might be afloat. Surface vessels combed and recombed the waters between Hampton Roads and Nantucket.

Search Fruitless.

Last night reports poured into Coast Guard headquarters here. Rear Admiral H. G. Hamlet, the commandant, and his aids surveyed each one. They were all nearly alike. The patrol boats and the cutters had plyed between certain points all day and hadn't found any boat or wreckage.

Trio Lost at Sea Hunted by Guards

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—By sea and air, the Coast Guard continued a wide search along the Atlantic Coast today for three youthful neighbors of President Roosevelt, who have been missing in the sloop Postscript since last week's disastrous northeaster.

Relatives expressed confidence the youths would be found safe as 20 Coast Guard vessels and 6 seaplanes swept the coast from Maine to the Delaware capes.

The missing sloop, sailed by Pierre P. Irving, 21; John L. Niles, 23, and his brother, Charles L. Niles, 16, set out from Manasquan, N. J., for Nantucket August 29 and has not been reported since.

Coal Men Accept Unions; Code Near

victory for labor. Coal operators, especially those in the South, have been historically committed to an antiunion policy, which they have maintained at times at the point of bayonets. Conciliatory speeches by Mr. Lewis are believed to have been partially responsible for their conversion.

Gen. Johnson estimated that drafting of the code would require a day or two.

Operators appear to be ready to lay down arms in the bitter competitive war which has distressed the industry for years.

Plan Trade Control.

Dr. Alexander Sachs, chief of the economic research and planning division of the administration, told the coal men they had acted without regard for their own intrests, even selling to competing industries at prices below production cost. The code is going to contain provisions fixing price areas and methods designed to stabilize conditions.

One major code remains under consideration—that dealing with retailers. Drug store operators have weakened their case for a separate code by demanding all sorts of special considerations. Other retailers are pointing to the multiplicity of articles sold by drug stores. They contend many have become competitors of department stores.

Completion of the retail code or codes is hoped for before the end of the week.

The Recovery Administration was disturbed for a few hours yesterday by reports of labor leaders' plans for strikes. One published report was that Mr. Lewis had drafted plans for a Nation-wide strike if the operators refused to make adequate concessions.

Other Trouble Looms.

There looms also the threat of other disturbances. Lithographers, printers and others are dissatisfied. If they fail to get shorter hours and wage readjustment there will be fireworks in several industries.

Reports on the Blue Eagle drive to obtain cooperation of consumers throughout the land poured into headquarters yesterday.

Covington, Va., beat the gun and reported that 700 persons had been put to work and 95 per cent of the town's employes had come under the Blue Eagle last Saturday.

There were 1,500,000 workers in the drive. Gen. Johnson told them to discourage rough tactics and avoid use of boycott threats, but to NRA merchants.

To Bait or Not to Bait Ducks Brings Row at Game Hearing

Wild Life Friends Clash; 11 Wardens for Plan, One Opposes.

State game department officials lined up unanimously in opposition to a Federal ban on duck baiting at the Agricultural Department hearing on wild fowl hunting yesterday, as former Senator Harry B. Hawes, of Missouri, and Dr. William T. Hornaday clashed sharply about the practice.

A charge by Dr. Hornaday that "enemies of wild life" controlled the Federal Advisory Board brought Hawes to his feet with the remark that such a statement was insulting. The former senator defended baiting and opposed a Federal ban.

Claims Game Slaughtered.

Dr. Hornaday, former director of the New York Zoological Park, urged a Federal law to preserve game from "slaughter." Hunters of the country outnumber combined armies of the world and pay an average of 50 cents a year for killing from $10 to $200 worth of game, he declared.

In presenting his arguments, the zoologist referred to the advisory board, which annually meets with the Bureau of Biological Survey of the Agricultural Department, which administers water-fowl shooting. The board, he declared, had "enemies of wild life put on it to control the board's decision."

Former Senator Hawes, counsel for the Izaak Walton League, branded this "insulting," and was backed by Thomas M. Beck, chairman of the Connecticut board of fisheries.

Audience Excited.

The exchange brought excited shouts from spectators, and, as Hawes stated that adoption of a Federal ban would throw thousands and thousands of guides out of work, J. N. Darling, well-known Des Moines, Iowa, cartoonist, laughed openly.

"It is no laughing matter," Hawes asserted.

William A. Snow, Alexandria, member of the Virginia Game Commission, declared enforcement of such a regulation by Federal game wardens would be "an utter absurdity."

"If sportsmen want to put out corn to attract brids, they will, and under this regulation we will see the same thing as in our country under prohibition," he said.

Advocates of a longer hunting season also appeared at the meeting, opened by Secretary Wallace.

"Scarlet Army" Of Crime Is Hit By War Head

Secretary Flays Passive Sentiment Permitting Evil to Thrive.

(Associated Press.)

A call for united action of citizens against "the scarlet army of crime" was sounded last night by Secretary Dern.

Speaking under auspices of the United States Flag Association, the Secreary of War urged creation of "a strong public sentiment for the enforcement of law—a public sentiment that will give our law enforcement officers the support they need, but are not now getting."

The Cabinet member said he believed the American people are beginning to be aroused to cooperative action by the warfare which the administration has launched "and is going to continue to wage until this great country of ours is rid of the scourge of frightful crime with which it is now cursed."

Sees Army of Crime.

"In effect," Dern said, "there is today a foreign army estimated at 400,000—more than three times the size of the Regular Army of the United States—that is operating in this country, invading the domestic tranquility of our people, invading the security of our homes and confiscating our property.

"I say it is a foreign army because it is foreign to everything that is really American * * * I refer, of course, to the army of 400,000 men and women in the United States who make their living mostly through crime."

Worse Than in 1776.

Dern pointed to kidnapings, racketeering and machine-gun killings and asserted the "scarlet army" is perpetrating greater oppression than the American colonists suffered before they threw off the yoke in the Revolutionary War.

Existing conditions are "due to the indifference of the American people," he said, urging that patriotic citizens join in waging war on the army of crime as vigorously as the Americans of 1776 fought for freedom.

Missouri Gets Control of Life Insurance Firm

State Takes Title to All Assets of Insolvent Underwriter.

St. Louis, Aug. 28 (AP).—The Missouri State Life Insurance Co., control of which has been sought by factions of officers and stockholders, was placed today under the direction of R. Memmett O'Malley, Missouri insurance superintendent.

O'Malley had asked receivership, alleging insolvency. Although not designated as such, O'Malley will act as a receiver, vested with title to all assets.

The company admitted insolvency. O'Malley has indicated he favored negotiations for a group of New York men to form a new company, called the General American Life Insurance Co., to take over and reinsure the business.

Holders of policies subject to liens could not have the benefit of full loan and cash surrender values until liens were satisfied through profits or appreciation of assets.

The Missouri State, one of the largest stock life firms, has about 250,000 policy holders and more than $1,000,000,000 of insurance in force. It operates in 38 States.

O'Malley criticized a recent $800,000 loan by which a New York group gained control. The loan was obtained by Julius H. Barnes and associates from St. Louis banks, and shortly afterward the company bought the notes from the banks, paying $800,000 in cash.

New Face Graces Old Armor

A modern maiden wearing the medieval armor of Saladin, the great warrior who fought against the Crusaders. The helmet later came to be the property of Richard the Lion Hearted. It is now in Washington.

Knight Helmet Of Olden Day Appears Here

Relic of Crusaders May Be Displayed in Museum.

Won in a lancing duel by Richard the Lion-Hearted, in the twelfth century, a spiked pot-helmet has finally worked its way to Washington.

More than a thousand year old, this helmet represents workmanship of Persian artisans, according to Dr. Walter Hough, curator of ethnology at the United States National Museum. There is no telling the age of the helmet. Though it can be traced as far as the eighth century.

Beaten steel, with inlaid gold and silver mountings, this piece of medieval armor is the property of Capt. Robert R. Bennett, Yucatan explorer and anthropologist.

The helmet, with a shield and armlet, is in a safety deposit vault. Its value is unknown. Arabian scholars are coming to decipher its inscriptions.

Formerly the possession of an anonymous foreign artist, who lost his fortune in 1929, it is believed the three pieces will eventually be placed either in Smithsonian Institution or the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The trail that led these relics to Washington, is filled with adventure.

Dr. Hough claims that Benvenuto Cellini never wrought anything in silver or gold to equal designs on this armor that once sat atop the head of Saladin, who fought against the Crusaders.

Around the rim of the helmet are Arabic inscriptions. A steel spike surmounts a dome of gold and silver in-lay over beaten steel.

On the shield are four half-spheres designating the Mohammedan idea of capturing the four corners of the globe, and a crescent showing it had been used against the crusaders.

Of the armlet little is known, nor are there any inscriptions to give a clue. It comes, however, of the same period, and the three pieces have been traveling companions from Palestine to Washington, over a period of 800 years.

Two-thirds around the rim of the helmet hangs a veil of steel mail. There is a nose guard of ornate design.

The helmet undoubtedy changed hands when Saladin and Richard, Coeur de Lion, tested their skill with the lance. Dr. Hough recalled that one of the warriors split an iron bolt with his lance, the other cutting a silken pillow in half as it was thrown in the air. The helmet was taken from an old French abbey and later found its way to England.

Americans Rush Trial in Mallorca

Protest "Strong" Charge Made Against Them by Military Group.

Palma, Mallorca, Aug. 28 (AP).—Five Americans accused of assaulting a civil guard, who were released in bail July 20, appealed today to the American consul-general at Barcelona. They asked him to speed up their trial and to protest the "strong charges" preferred by military authorities.

The Americans asserted Mallorca officials were making the charges stronger because of resentment at the intervention of Premier Manuel Azana of Spain, on whose instructions they received bail after having been held in jail for six weeks.

The Americans involved in the incident are Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood, Springfield, Mass.; Rutherford Fullerton, Columbus, Ohio; Edmund W. Blodgett, Stamford, Conn., and Roderick F. Mead, New York.

Repeal Is Close In Washington

Wets Forecast 2-1 Win as Dry Forces Predict Surprise in Vote.

Seattle, Aug. 28 (AP).—Repeal organizations predicted tonight that Washington voters would cast a 2-to-1 majority against prohibition at the election tomorrow while dry headquarters said the vote may prove a surprise to those forecasting wet majorities.

Washington is the twenty-fourth State to vote, 23 other States having voted against national prohibition.

In a telegram to George Starr, Democratic State chairman, Postmaster General Farley said he was satisfied Washington will go "overwhelming for repeal tomorrow," and urged that all voters in the State "regardless of political affiliation, who may be in favor of repeal," go to the polls.

J. C. Marmaduke, president of the Washington Association for the Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, said:

"We feel that the State will vote more than 2 to 1 for repeal and believe further that we will carry every one of the 46 districts."

Gov. Lehman Approves Law Granting Limited Foreclosure Time.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 28 (U.P.).—Real estate in New York State was given a 10-month "breathing spell" tonight when Gov. Lehman approved bills declaring a limited mortgage foreclosure moratorium on defaults of principal.

The measure, passed by an extraordinary session of the Legislature, made no provision, however, for failure to pay interest and taxes demanded by small home owners.

Smith, Who Plowed Cotton, May Yet Get Check From U. S.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wallace returned yesterday from a week-end trip to South Carolina, determined to pay Senator Ellison Durant Smith for the cotton the latter plowed up "if any legal way can be found."

The South Carolina senator, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, joined heartily in the emergency cotton acreage reduction campaign this year and was one of the first in his State to plow up his acres. Then it developed, there is a law which prevents members of Congress from making contracts with the Government for which they receive pay.

The Secretary of Agriculture visited Smith and said that the senator, known in some circles as "Cotton Ed" because of his keen interest in the staple, didn't bring up the subject of the missing cotton check. But Wallace said he felt the veteran legislator should be paid with other growers.

Bride's Job "Most Interesting Next to Gen. Johnson's"

District Solicitor Admits Yen for Medicine or Sea, However.

That is the way William W. Bride, the District's corporation counsel, describes his job.

To the question, "What would you choose as your career if you could live your life over again?" Bride indicated that he would choose law.

Answering hesitantly, Bride said that as an adolescent he had a hankering to either follow the sea or be a physician.

He very nearly became an officer in the Navy. In 1896 Gen. Joseph Wheeler, a Confederate veteran and representative from Alabama, appointed him to the Naval Academy.

However, Bride's father, a real estate man, decided that the law was to be his son's career. He was graduated from Georgetown University in 1904.

Incidentally, Bride said, Gen. Wheeler's son, Thomas Wheeler, went to Annapolis in his stead, and met his death by drowning in his fourth year there.

Before being chosen corporation counsel, about six years ago, Bride practiced law internationally. He holds decorations from the Roumanian and Czechoslovakian governments.

Although satisfied with his career, the District's solicitor admits a hankering to know what he would have done as a sailor or physician.

Ancient Capitol, Thrice Swept By Flames, to Be Fireproofed

(Associated Press.)

To insure preservation of the Capitol, which has had three serious fires, fire protection facilities are being installed in the ancient and labyrinthian cellars of the famous building which symbolizes the self-governing power of the American people.

David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, is engaged in putting in a system of fire walls and fire doors in order to isolate different sections of the cellars and thus confine a fire to the particular section in which it might start.

Built Long Ago.

At the time of the completion of the old Capitol, comprising the rotunda or Supreme Court section and the Statuary Hall section, elevators were unknown. Electric lighting had not yet arrived and the present-day system of heating had not been developed.

With the introduction of improved methods of heating, as well as adoption of the electric lighting, many changes were made in the cellar portion of the Supreme Court. Some were necessititated by a severe explosion which occurred November 6, 1898. Investigation revealed the cause of the blast was gas under abnormal pressure which flooded the compartments.

Heavy Fire Damage.

The explosion was accompanied by fire, which caused heavy damage. Since then there has been a feeling of apprehension that inflammable material might be carelessly left in one portion and, if ignited, the fire might spread through the cellar of the Supreme Court, the cellar of the crypt and the cellar of Statuary Hall, where vast quantities of books and documents are stored.

Outside of the fire started in the old Capitol by the British 119 years ago, the most severe blaze occurred on Christmas Eve, 1851, when the Library of Congress was ravaged with the destruction of large numbers of books and works of art.

Idleness Now Luring Mules, Says Pegler

Writer Suggests Training Loafers to Observe NRA Spirit.

By Westbrook Pegler.

New York, N. Y., Aug. 28 (Spl.).—I suppose there is nothing to do about those dumb slaves of habit, the Southern farm mules, but beat them and yank them by the mouth until they come to understand that hereafter they are not always to walk between the cotton rows, according to their training, but sometimes on them. It says in the paper that these mules, victims of their early training and probably of an instinct handed down from their ancestors, have refused to plow under that portion of the cotton crop which the Government is going to pay the farmers not to harvest.

The field hands, of course, have received about the same sort of raising and undoubtedly have the same aversion to the job. But the farmer is intelligent and can unlearn more readily than the mule.

If the mule could read the papers or listen to the radio he might understand that his ancient horror of walking down the crops is no longer to be entertained. The world has changed and his driver has had to learn suddenly that important reservations have been added to many of the fine old rules for living a good life.

Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Carnegie and old Mr. Rockefeller all praised thrift without any reservation whatever.

Now the Government tells the workman to go to the grasshopper, thou grubber, consider his ways and be patriotic. So everything is very badly mixed up and probably there are some citizens who find it almost as hard to go into reverse as the mule does.

It might be a helpful idea for Gen. Johnson to set up a department within his department to promote loafing tournaments in various parts of the country to popularize the new virtue of idleness. For instructors he could draw upon both benches—the judicial and the baseball bench—for there he will find many men who are masters of the art of doing nothing on a nonstop basis. But then he might not have to go outside the Government service for his experts; and if the Federal Government feels that its own candidates are not quite up to the mark, then the municipal governments can furnish plenty who are.

If the new deal does flout mathematics that need be regarded as no great obstacle. The belief that two and two make four may be just an old superstition anyway. There is no sense in being mulish about these things.

Pollard Signs Bill for Repeal Vote on Oct. 3

Virginia Houses Deadlocked on Tax Features of Beer Measure.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 28 (AP).—Gov. Pollard tonight signed the referendum bill providing for a referendum on repeal on October 3, at which time 30 delegates to a convention at Richmond, October 25, will be named.

Just a short time before, a joint conference committee of the Virginia General Assembly tonight surveyed the bill designed to legalize 3.2 beer in an effort to reach a compromise on a dozen or more Senate amendments which the House refused to accept.

Expect Quick Report.

The House rejected every one of the amendments added to the bill by the Senate and the upper house insisted upon them. Thereupon, late today a conference committee composed of Senators Aubrey Weaver, of Front Royal; W. A. Garrett, of Ridgeway, and William M. Tuck, of Halifax, and Delegates Wilbur C. Hall, of Loudoun; John Q. Rhodes, of Louisa, and Stuart Moffett, of Augusta, was appointed to act tonight. The committee hopes to report tomorrow.

Two Major Differences.

Major differences between the houses were on the tax schedules—the State excise schedule and local maximums to be imposed on retailers.

As the House passed the bill the excise tax was fixed at $3.10 a barrel, and one cent a bottle. The Senate cut the tax to $1.50 a barrel and one-half cent a bottle.

As the bill passed the House the maximum local tax on retailers was fixed at $20 in the cities and $10 in the counties.

As the Senate passed the bill, the maximums were raised to $100 in cities of population of 100,000 or more; $50 in other cities and towns with populations between 3,500 and 100,000, and $20 in counties and smaller towns. Senate amendments made exceptions in the case of Arlington County, where the retail maximum was made $50, and the town of South Boston, with a maximum of $20. The bill provided also that counties and their incorporated towns should not impose a double tax on the retailers.

Startled, the holdup men fled. Bing told police he kept the whistle for the very purpose of scaring off stick-up men.

Two hours later, someone broke into Bing's living quarters on the floor above and stole $1 and a watch.

Roosevelt's Aid Sought in Gas Tax Problems

Virginia-District Situation Will Be Cited in New Code Plan.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 28 (AP).—The Federal Relations Committee of the House tonight reported a joint resolution by Delegate Hugh Reid, of Arlington, which would request President Roosevelt to amend the oil code to permit oil companies to pay a part of the gasoline tax where differences between the rates in adjacent States make competition otherwise difficult.

Mr. Reid, appearing before the committee, said the companies now paid 2 cents of the 3 cents difference between Virginia and District of Columbia taxes, thus permitting dealers in the metropolitan area of Virginia adjacent to Washington to retail gasoline at District prices. The oil code, he added, prohibits this.

The Arlington member said unless something was done it would mean driving Virginia dealers in the area out of business, the throwing of many persons out of employment and the loss of a considerable gasoline tax revenue to Virginia. Residents of his section, he added, had suggested a special rate for the area, but he said he believed such a bill would be violative of the Virginia Constitution.

"The best thing to do, it appears to me, is to call the matter to the attention of President Roosevelt," Reid said.

The situation is more acute in the Arlington section than anywhere else, Reid added, pointing out that adjacent States do not have rates as low as the District of Columbia.

Rifle From Bull Run Battle Exhibited on Anniversary

Bryan Gordon, Arlington, Proud Possessor of War Relic.

An old rifle picked from the field soon after the second battle of Bull Run was brought out from its honored resting place yesterday in commemoration of the anniversary of the battle 71 years ago.

As the pages of history turn back to this date, Federal forces were attacking Confederate troops under the command of Gen. Stonewall Jackson. And that indomitable commander repulsed his attackers until Gen. Longstreet brought his men up to guide the Confederate Army to victory.

Bryan Gordon, former jusice of the peace for Arlington County, is the proud possessor of the firearm. That mute witness to one of the most stirring engagements of the Civil War was given to Gorden by C. C. Herford, grandson of its owner, the late John Hereford, who retrieved the weapon from the battle front.

The Moley Incident.

While the press of the country is headlining the resignation of Mr. Moley in terms of a battle between him and his official superior, the incident is more significant than this picture indicates.

General understanding in Washington is that the Assistant Secretary of State was on more intimate and confidential terms with the President than was the head of the State Department, not only in personal relations but also in official matters. The situation worked itself out as such things inevitably must. The Secretary of State appears to have exercised the greatest patience and consideration with a situation that was irritating in the beginning and intolerable in the end.

Government must be conducted in an orderly way with respect for the power and responsibility of officials who stand before the public as heads of departments. No matter how long and how intimate the association of the subordinates of a department may have been with the President, effective operation of Government demands respect for orderly conduct of affairs.

Under proper and customary procedure, responsible heads of departments must have the fullest opportunity for contact and discussion with their chiefs. Policies agreed upon must be accepted and carried out by the men under them in a spirit of loyal cooperation.

It is to be regretted that this simple formula had to be learned by what is, on the whole, undoubtedly an unpleasant experience for all concerned. But if the lessons of the incident are accepted, we may hope that progress in orderly government has been advanced. Such progress need not interfere with liberal thought or freedom from outworn conventions in matters of policy.

Informality, however delightful in private relations, can not in public affairs successfully be substituted for the well-established methods which long experience has shown to be vital to smooth operation of any highly developed organization.

Exclusion of Orientals.

At a conference of nations on the Pacific, both east and west, it was inevitable that the question of immigration restrictions designed to bar Asiatics from western countries should be brought up for discussion. At the Banff meeting both Japanese and Chinese delegates proposed the opening of negotiations to secure modification of exclusion acts in force in the United States and Canada.

Though this subject was not a question for debate in open sessions, it is reported that representatives of the eastern nations suggested to delegates of both the North American nations the need of greater outlet for crowded Asiatic populations. In urging broader policies the Oriental nations are said to have suggested that if restriction should be based on quotas to accord with the number of their nationals already here and in Canada it would be an acceptable move which would appease national feeling in the Far East.

Percy R. Benough, of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, representing Dominion labor at the conference, held that no immigration of any kind could be permitted in Canada until unemployment had been eliminated, and that in any event first consideration must be given to immigration from the British Isles and the United States. Similar opposition is reported to have been voiced by American delegates. Paul Scharrenberg, secretary of the California Federation of Labor, took the position that Oriental labor should not be permitted to enter the United States until conditions would enable the Orientals to maintain a standard of living comparable with that of American labor.

Excessive Taxes in States.

In his address to neighbors of Duchess county last Saturday President Roosevelt brought out the astonishing fact that there are 13,000 local units of government in New York State, all levying taxes. There are 950 highway departments in that State. The President reminded his fellow citizens that they lived under "six or eight layers of government, Federal, State, county and town, electric light district and fire department district, even sidewalk district and I don't know how many other kinds of districts." He called for a reorganization of local governments for the purpose of increasing efficiency and reducing taxation.

Pennsylvania is stirring the question of reorganization and tax simplification. It has 5,477 distinct tax-raising units, which levy taxes without co-ordination or regard for the total load upon the taxpayer. The Pennsylvania branch of the National Economy League is now undertaking a systematic attack upon the problem, and as a starter has called attention to the reforms already accomplished in Indiana by the State Taxpayers Association. The secretary of that association will show Pennsylvanians how the Indiana association has saved $100,000,000 for taxpayers during its eleven years of work, by eliminating waste and inefficiency in local, municipal and State affairs.

The subject of double and conflicting taxation has been studied by the taxation committee of the American Bar Association and will be discussed this week at the annual session of the association at Grand Rapids. Committees of Congress are also engaged in a study of taxation problems, in the hope of finding a suitable line of demarcation between Federal and State fields of taxation. The bar association committee is expected to emphasize the need for revision of the valuation basis of death taxes, and for the development of a system better calculated to reflect the price fluctuations in the value of estate assets.

Equalizing Competitive Conditions.

The negotiations over hours and rates of wages under the various industrial codes have drawn attention sharply to the wide diversities of working conditions and labor costs that exist within the limits of the extensive free trade area covered by the 48 States of the Union. Considering the difference in wage rates prevailing within the same industry in North, East, South and West, and the lack of uniformity in State labor laws, it often seems amazing that competing concerns subjected to such unequal conditions are able to sell goods in the same markets or in adjacent areas.

As a matter of fact, the geographical handicaps of some of our industries are more serious than the average American realizes. The New England cotton textile mills provide a stock illustration of certain typical disabilities that confront an old established industry located in a high wage area, when it tries to compete with a newer branch of the industry paying lower rates of wages and operating longer hours. The difficulties created by these sectional differences tend to increase, moreover, as the new low cost areas overcome the initial handicaps that confront any industry before it has had time to secure a trained and adequate labor force.

The competitive problems created by the existing geographical heterogeneity of wage and hour standards exists to a greater or lesser degree throughout the industrial field. As evidence of this fact, it is only necessary to mention the quarrels that have arisen over the wage differentials—proposed for various industrial codes. Naturally, the representatives of concerns operating in high cost areas want to diminish the existing spread in wage rates, while those employers who have benefited from lower wage scales in the past try to cling to the advantages they have previously enjoyed. Controversies over the recognition or nonrecognition of unions have undoubtedly been aggravated by the fears of certain industrialists that the extension of union influence would result in more interference with schedules of hours and wages and lead to greater uniformity of wage rates.

A coal producer from western Pennsylvania who is opposed to all forms of sectional wage difference in his industry characterizes such variations as a form of artificial protection. On the other hand representatives of mines located in low-wage areas protest that differences in labor payments are necessary to offset other handicaps and essential to their survival. Compromises are plainly indicated in most of these cases of conflicting interests, since it is clearly impracticable to eliminate by sudden and sweeping agreements long-established geographical differences in rates of pay, as the framers of the steel code point out in attempting to justify the 15-cent per hour spread in the hourly wage rates which that industry proposes to pay common labor. However, as the organization of industry under the recovery act has as one of its main objectives the raising of labor standards and the elimination of unfair competition, disparities in wages, hours and costs between States and districts will presumably gradually become less as the process of codification spreads.

Use of Prison-Made Goods.

Clarence Darrow made an eloquent plea for reform in the disposition of convict-made goods at the hearing on the proposed NRA code for retailers. A clause in the tentative code would prohibit merchants from purchasing convict-made goods, and Mr. Darrow urged that this clause be eliminated. "A man must do something besides pounding rocks if our penitentiaries are ever to be more than crime factories," he said. "What he does must be useful."

It is said that about 400,000 individuals are confined in penitentiaries and jails. They represent potential wealth-creating power which ought to be utilized, not only for their moral welfare but for the benefit of their families and society. The Hawes-Cooper act, however, prohibits the transportation of prison-made goods into States which prohibit the sale of such goods, and throughout the country there is opposition to competition between "free" labor and prison labor.

How to dispose of convict-made products without encroaching upon the market for other goods is a problem which is tackled in various ways by different States. Road-making is an outlet for prison labor in some States. In other States the prison output is sold to the State itself, as in New York, where the inmates of Sing Sing produce goods whose gross proceeds amount to $800,000 annually. Twenty-five trades are taught in the workshops of Sing Sing, ranging from shoemaking to mattress making.

The suggestion has been made that, pending solution of the problem of disposing of prison-made goods on a commercial basis, all goods made in prisons should be distributed for the relief of the destitute by Federal and State relief agencies. It is suggested that this plan would eliminate such goods from competition with commercial products; that prisoners would have the benefit of "doing something besides pounding rocks;" and that the relief agencies could obtain prison-made goods at cost, thus reducing the expense of public emergency relief.

Mr. Darrow's opinion as to the necessity of providing useful labor for prisoners is shared by all penologists. Unless convicts are enabled to rehabilitate themselves by learning useful trades they will be in a hopeless state, whether in or out of prison. It has often been urged that a moderate allowance should be made for a substantial day's work by a prisoner, to be paid to his family for its maintenance during his incarceration. This could be accomplished if the Federal and State relief agencies would take over prison-made goods at a little more than cost. Under this system a powerful motive for reform would be provided for all but incorrigible criminals, for they would feel that they were contributing to the support of their families and preparing the way for their own reinstatement in society.

Inasmuch as large sums will be devoted by the Federal and State governments to unemployment relief for some time to come, it may be that diversion of prison-made goods to relief purposes would work for economy, besides taking such goods out of the channels of trade and thereby preventing competition between convicts and workers in industry.

Maryland's Tercentenary.

Maryland's celebration of its third centenary next year will direct special attention to St. Marys City and the quaint conditions attending the founding of the Commonwealth. Gov. Ritchie has appointed J. Alexis Shriver general director of the celebration, and Mr. Shriver has already begun a study of St. Marys City and its surroundings with a view to reproducing the ancient Statehouse in its original setting. He finds that the tercentenary will require a careful study of the past; and incidentally, he suggests that the unique beauty and charm of old St. Marys City are not fully appreciated in the rest of the State.

"Those who live in other States already have begun to 'colonize' the county where Maryland's capital was first located," says Mr. Shriver. "Prominent families from New York, Pennsylvania, District of Columbia, Chicago and other places have bought and modernized many of the fine old Colonial homes, and more are coming."

St. Marys County is one of the most picturesque in Maryland. It possesses numerous waterside resorts which attract thousands of Washingtonians. Some of these visitors have a liking for historical research, and they have made interesting discoveries in St. Marys County. Mr. Shriver himself observes that the business of preparing for the tercentenary has assumed an archaeological nature. He has found some of the original tiles of the first Statehouse, which was used as a church after the capital was removed to Annapolis.

Maryland's history, which will command attention as a result of the tercentenary celebration, begins with the charter granted in 1632 by King Charles I to George Calvert, first Lord Baltimore. It conveyed to him the territory between the Potomac River and the fortieth parallel, and styled him absolute lord and proprietor thereof. He died before the great seal had been affixed and the charter passed to his oldest son, Cecil. In Noverber, 1633, Cecil Calvert's brother Leonard brought 200 colonists to Maryland in the Ark and the Dove, landing in March, 1634, and founding the colony. Religious liberty was the aim of the proprietor, and home rule was first established in Maryland. The role played by the State in the drama of independence and national development has been enlightened and progressive.

Better Vacations.

Reduced incomes and improved highways seem to be the chief factors in effecting a change in the vacation habits of the people. Transatlantic travel has been at a very low ebb, while automobile vacations have increased in number and mileage. Speedy young men have driven from Washington to Salt Lake City in three days. Women think nothing of driving to the Pacific Coast or to Florida. Short automobile tours are innumerable. Resort hotels not remote from the cities complain that many motorists now spend only their weekends on vacation, instead of patronizing the hotels for a month or so at a stretch.

Whenever a national park is opened it is visited by thousands of motorists, some of them traveling hundreds of miles from home. Once the desire to "see America first" is aroused, it is never satisfied. With good highways, convenient lodgings, universal garage service, and freedom from the annoyances that attend foreign motoring, Americans are justified in seeking out the picturesque, the historic, and the health-giving regions of their own land.

One of the incidental benefits of the Civilian Conservation Corps enterprise is the increased knowledge of this immense country that is inculcated in members of the army and their relatives and friends. Several hundred thousand men have learned much of the geography and resources of the United States, and additional hundreds of thousands of their relatives and friends have become interested in the regions where the men have encamped. The establishment of these camps has increased automobile traffic in all parts of the country.

All of the money expended on vacations in this country remains at home. The sum total runs into large figures, as is manifest by the equivalent shrinkage of American tourist expenditures abroad.

There are about 250,000 separate taxing authorities in the United States, but the average taxpayer lays it all to Uncle Sam.

A Tough One to Break Up!

Critic Holds That Distorted Picture of Life and Morals Is Too Often Presented in the Movies.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If we were to undertake a serious criticism of some movies as they move, it would be directed against their unnaturalness, their infidelity to the fundamental impulses and unchangeable sequences of real life and the false education of audiences resulting therefrom.

Too often rascality and crime are rewarded with happiness after a superficial and obviously impossible repentance in the last act. The convict turns into a hero, the libertine becomes a moral model, the vampire acquires amazing virtue, the wicked husband or wife has a saintly finish.

Such things do not often happen in life. They occur so frequently in the movies that young men and girls are in danger of receiving and adopting wholly false ideas of human relations with irrevocable and inescapable moral laws. Many utterly bad things are often condoned on the screen; the natural progress of character, good or bad, is too often perverted. The result, so far as immature minds are concerned, can be only a distorted and untrue conception of the values of life and conduct. It is to correct this trend that criticism should be directed, in my opinion.

Hazardous Street Crossings Need Protective Devices Such as Those at Pennsylvania and Constitution Avenues.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An immediate survey should be thoroughly studied by the city's traffic board to determine the necessity of installing more mechanical devices to regulate traffic at all hazardous crossings that are permitted to go unguarded.

Connecticut avenue and Twentieth street presents an unusually dangerous traffic situation. These streets have been left unguarded for a long time, yet conditions warrant immediate and decisive action. The difference of angles in the two streets, being similar to those of Constitution avenue and Pennsylvania avenue, offer a difficult problem. Imminent danger and congestion has been arrested since installation of mechanical devices to govern traffic at Pennsylvania avenue and Constitution avenue. Other deadly crossings continue to increase the mortality rate of accident victims upon the streets. Pedestrians and motorists alike must continually be faced with loss of property, life and limb if these conditions are not improved.

Thinks Battle Scene in NRA Parade Would Be Inconsistent With Purpose of New Deal.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your issue of August 22 reports that a battle scene on a mammoth float is being entered in the National Recovery Day Parade on August 29. As a resumption of the old-time glorification of war, does not this seem highly inappropriate? How many of the onlookers do you suppose will recognize in this float the active symbol of the cause of the depression from which the NRA is trying to save us, not through more militarism, but through cooperation in the ways of peace?

FREDERICK J. LIBBY.

STYLES.

An interpreter and an expert in fashions are needed to understand the latest style dispatches from Paris, says the New York Times. How to reconcile "beauty in motion" with "statuesque mobility?" Both attributes are incorporated in one design and required of one wearer. But how can swift Camilla scour the plain and still be statuesque—and also mobile? We have heard of and sometimes seen statue-like repose, and dancing grace has been captured immovable in marble. Perhaps the lady will stand still while her "oval draperies" and "slight Greek evening influence" wave in an artificial breeze.

If the Majority Isn't Right, It Doesn't Long Remain a Majority

By Robert Quillen.

THE disciples of Henry Mencken make frequent use of their master's stock phrases to express contempt for ordinary people. Their pet abomination is something they call "herd thinking."

The herd, of course, is the mass of common people—farmers, clerks, mechanics, salesmen. And the expression, if it means anything, means the kind of thinking done by these people.

As a matter of fact, their thoughts are as different as their lives; but in thinking of matters that concern all of us, the majority of them reach the same conclusions.

They think prohibition has made criminals rich and powerful, and they think the country should try some other method of liquor control.

They think their Government should be generous to veterans injured in service, but they think other veterans are doing wrong when they gang up and use their voting power to wrest appropriations from frightened congressmen.

They think America should have enough surface ships, submarines and airplanes to repulse any invader, and use them only in self-defense.

They think banks should be made safe, the sale of dishonest securities stopped and rich rogues sent to jail.

They think the Government should and could wipe out kidnapers, racketeers and gangsters, even if necessary to declare martial law.

They think it is possible and necessary to lessen the power of money, rid the land of dishonest officials and give the ordinary man a better chance.

They think America should come first and the rest of the world go hang.

That is "herd thinking."

What is wrong with it?

As a matter of fact, the majority in any community usually is level-headed and fair. It may stampede in exciting times, and it may lag behind a reformer who moves too fast; but in the long run it always stands for what is sane and right.

The individual who habitually abuses and ridicules and opposes his neighbors may be superior to them, but it isn't likely. Usually he is a contrary crank or a bad citizen.

Comment of the Press

The War on Kidnaping Goes On.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Henceforth, in New York State, kidnapers will ply their trade only at the risk of occupying a certain chair at Ossining, where a man sits but once. Gov. Lehman has signed a bill making kidnaping punishable by death. Missouri has such a law and used it recently to sentence one of the kidnapers of Mary McElroy. Illinois law provides the death penalty for kidnaping and will invoke it against the Luer kidnapers. Down in Oklahoma the Urschel kidnapers, rounded up after a brilliant piece of detective work, are facing trial, with J. B. Keenan, assistant attorney general, in charge. In San Francisco yesterday, a kidnaper was killed by police as he was leading his victim down the street. Things are getting hot for the gangsters.

Tax on Liquor.
Minneapolis Journal.

In the fiscal year that ended March 31, 1920, the British excise tax on spirits was 50 shillings a gallon and the revenue 42 million pounds. The fiscal year 1932-33 brought revenue of only 30 million pounds, although the tax was 72 shillings 6 pence. Adding an increased tax to price of product, distillers found consumption reduced, unsold stocks accumulating, plants closed and unemployment. From the British figures we may draw the economic lesson that, if we tax liquor too heavily, the revenue expected will not be realized and the moral lesson that the heavier the tax the more consumption will be held down. Contrawise, a moderate tax will favor consumption and higher revenues.

It's Europe's Problem.
Louisville Courier-Journal.

The United States has amply demonstrated its sincere desire for a reduction of the burden of armies and navies. President Hoover proposed a one-third cut in the armaments of all nations. Mr. Davis, through his activities, prevented a collapse of the conference and the revision to arms competition. President Roosevelt this spring made an impressive appeal for peace and disarmament—the appeal which prevented Adolf Hitler from delivering a dangerous swashbuckling speech before the Reichstag and allowed him to appear in a conciliatory light.

In spite of its effect on the rest of the world, European armament is a European question. In large measure it is dictated by geographical position and the feeling of insecurity. That feeling is now heightened by political changes and political unrest. To press for disarmament at this time might defeat the cause of disarmament. The European nations must take the first step in their own interests.

Weight and Disease.
Louisville Courier-Journal.

The U. S. Public Health Service says that persons underweight are less subject than persons overweight to most diseases peculiar to middle-age and beyond. This statement is based on vital statistics showing an excess of mortality among young underweight adults and among older overweight adults. But might it not be because more persons overweight than underweight survive their early adult years?

THOUGHTLESSNESS.

A little bit of shouting in a sharp and vicious tone
Can leave a sting that will be felt when many years have flown.
And just one hasty minute of ill-temper can offend
And leave an inner injury the years may never mend.

It takes no moral fiber to say harsh and bitter things.
It doesn't call for courage to employ a lash that stings;
And cruel words and bitter any fool can think to say,
But the hurt they leave behind them many years can't wipe away.

For only those are happy and keep their peace of mind
Who guard themselves from hatreds and words that are unkind.

JAPAN'S FINANCES.

While Japan's foreign trade increases, so do her financial difficulties, according to Living Age. For the first three months of 1933 imports totaled 541,284,000 yen, as against 410,781,000 yen for 1932; exports rose from 251,733,000 yen to 371,310,000, and the unfavorable trade balance increased from 159,048,000 yen to 169,794,000.

But all these increases are in terms of the yen, which has depreciated to about two-fifths of its normal value, thus causing a great financial strain.

Japan's national debt rose to more than 7,000,000,000 yen at the end of March, of which more than 5,500,000,000 represent foreign loans. Ordinary domestic business is poor, but the airplane and munitions industries are going strong. That the nation as a whole has not been thriving is indicated by an increase during 1932 of more than 25 per cent in the suicide rate of metropolitan Tokyo.

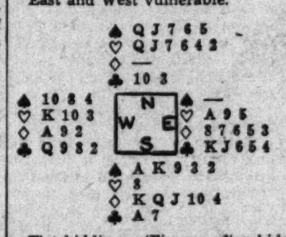
Psychic Opening Bids.

Psychic Opening bids are called the most difficult of all bids for the partner of the psychic bidder to read because—except in those rare instances where his hand is overwhelmingly strong or tremendously weak—he has no sure yardstick by which he may be guided in deciding that his partner has sought to bluff the opponents out of something.

Mr. John F. Stone of Forest Hill, N. Y., records a recent Psychic Opening bid by his partner, which, although it was based on nothing more substantial than a 6-5-2 distribution, eventually resulted in a Slam declaration which Mr. Stone was able to make. It was an unusual and happy denouement to such an Opening and I record it more for its historical significance than for its value to the earnest student of Bridge.

North, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♡(1)	2♣(2)	3♠(3)	Pass
4♠(4)	Pass	5◇(5)	Pass
5♠(6)	Pass	6♣(7)	Pass
6♠(8)	Pass	Pass	Pass

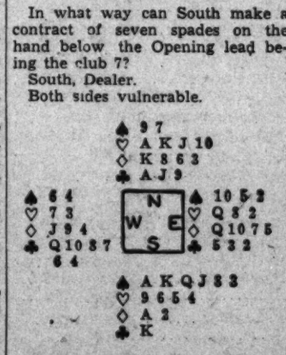
1—A very bad bid. With eleven cards in the two major suits, even with but a single honor-trick, North may well consider entering the bidding at a later stage, but there is no purpose whatever in this Opening, which can deceive no one but his partner.
2—Not a sound Overcall, vulnerable.
3—There is no reason why South should distrust his partner—at least no reason apparent on the surface. With 4½ honor-tricks, obviously a Forcing Takeout must be made, even though the hand contains only a single heart, the suit bid by his partner.
4—While North realizes that he has created a difficult situation, he still feels that he cannot refuse to respect his partner's Forcing Takeout. Hence the Raise to four spades.
5—Offering an alternative and also suggesting the possibility of a Slam.
6—While North fears a Slam bid by his partner, he still can not refuse to show his strong preference between the two suits named.
7—South refuses to be shut out. His partner's Opening psychic may be perfectly honest so far as he knows. The bid of the opponent's suit is, of course, equivalent to a bid of six spades, which his partner has twice supported.
8—North makes the anticipated response.

In the play West opened a club, and South, after winning the first trick, at once faced a very difficult continuation. Obviously he could not afford to lose a trick in diamonds nor in clubs, as there was no way of avoiding the loss of a trick in hearts. The only way, then, that his contract could be assured would be to find West with the diamond Ace or to establish one diamond for a discard of Dummy's club. Mr. Stone elected to attempt the establishment of the diamond suit and therefore, after winning the first trick, led a small diamond from his hand and ruffed with a small spade in the Dummy. He returned to his own hand with a trump, and repeated the process, and, leading another trump from the Dummy, was fortunate enough on the third round to drop the diamond Ace. Thereupon, with two established diamonds, the hand was made. Mr. Stone only conceded a heart trick in the play.

Tomorrow's Hand.

In what way can South make a contract of seven spades on the hand below the Opening lead being the club 7?

South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Sun Priestess Begs a Chance To Form Cult

Solarism, Not Nudism, if You Please, Is Her Basic Principle.

Not nudism. Solarism.

Solarism—the therapy of the sun.

"The school of nudism to which I adhere, and to which I belong, is not naked culture," very positively did lissom little brown-skinned Alice M. Caporn, Australian-American priestess of the sun cult, clear up this point.

This may be welcome news to those guardians of propriety in the Nation's Capital who have been all of a flutter recently over rumors that a nudist colony is storming its gates.

"Mine is the school of 'solarism,'" she told her story in deep, vibrating chest tones, fixing her audience with penciled, wide-open, strange blue eyes.

"'Solarism' is the name I coined to differentiate my school from the school of nudism, in which men and women mingle together unclad. That school doesn't interest me, except as a movement which is gaining headway in America.

"I am interested in exposing the unclad body to the sun's rays for purposes of hygiene. But I am sure that I and my students also feel freer and more comfortable when the sexes are segregated. Because one can not break down, nor do I think it wise to break down, that sense of modesty which has been instilled in both sexes for innumerable generations."

Orthopathic Diploma.

Somehow, it really isn't funny, the cult, as Dr. Caporn with passionate intensity and Oxford intonation, expounds it. Doctor, she calls herself. Doctor of philosophy. She shows a degree from the Clements Institute of Orthopathy in Oklahoma.

And this much can be said. Sun cult or no, few women of 56 radiate the air of fleetness, vitality and strangeness that this one does.

She advanced across the room in her suite at the Arlington Hotel with floating, cat-like tread. Her skin is mahogany brown. Her sleeveless dress accented the youthful slightness of her figure. She coolly admitted she has been called the Australian Fanny Ward.

"As to my reaction to nudism, as that term is generally understood, I have nothing to say. I have never practice nudism with both sexes, and I have no desire to experiment along these lines.

Starved for Sunshine.

The doctor has a plan—a Government sun park, here in the Nation's Capital.

"Why shouldn't Washington, the Capital City of America, lead the way in a progressive movement of this nature?" she wanted to know.

"'Let the Government bear the expense of such a park's construction," she retorted. "Let the Government, which is annually spending thousands upon thousands of dollars in its attempt to cure disease, set aside a modest allowance for an experiment in preventing disease.

"Let the Government do it, first of all, for its own workers who are shut up indoors all day, year in, year out. These faithful, loyal workers without whom the Government couldn't exist.

"When freed from their daily confinement at 4 o'clock, let it be possible for them to go straight to a Government park, take off their clothes and drench their bodies in vitamin D, the sunshine elixir! Let them lie naked upon the earth, which is pregnant with vital elements. Let them absorb its magnetism through the pores of their naked skin!"

High-Walled Park.

The park that Dr. Caporn dreams of would present a high-walled fence to the world, thereby guaranteeing privacy to its users. It would be carpeted with grass, "with trees for shelter when necessary." It would be police supervised, and Government inspected as to sanitation. It would be divided into five areas, each providing complete seclusion from the others.

The sun patients would be divided, both as to sex and to health. Men and women in perfect health would have respective retreats. Men and women in ailing health would be allocated to other retreats. Children under 10 years of age, accompanied by mother or nurse, would be entered in the fifth division.

Steps have been taken to bring the revolutionary idea to the attention of District and Federal authorities in Washington.

A petition urging the establishment of such a park has been drafted by Dr. Caporn. Copies are to be submitted at an early date before the District Board of Commissioners, the Department of Public Health, the District Police Department and to the representatives and senators from the State of Massachusetts.

Asks Help of Massachusetts.

"I shall submit it before the representatives and senators from Massachusetts, because I feel their influence, if brought to bear, would advance the cause considerably," Dr. Caporn explained. "And because I am a citizen of Massachusetts and a property owner in that State, which has been my home for 16 years."

Dr. Caporn is Australian born, of English parentage. Her father she described as an Oxford graduate—"my accent was instilled by him"—in whose veins ran the blood of the reformer and teacher.

In 1917, while en route from Australia to France, going by way of America to avoid the submarine-infested Suez Canal, she stopped off in the United States for what was intended to be a brief visit. She never resumed her journey. Two years ago she became a naturalized American citizen.

It is since coming to this country that Dr. Caporn took up the cause of heliotheraphy. She was converted to the cause through the teachings of Dr. Robert G. Jackson, of Toronto, Canada.

Dr. Weizmann Puts Demands Up to Zionists

Rejects Presidency Until Given Authority to Pick Executives.

Prana, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 28 (AP).—The insistence of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, former president of the World Zionist Organization, that he be empowered to name the executive body and that the present structure of the Jewish agency for Palestine be maintained confronted the Eighteenth World Zionist Congress tonight.

Dr. Weizmann is at a resort in Czechoslovakia. David Bengurion and Dr. Josef Sprinzak, of the Laborite party, largest faction in the congress, returned tonight after unsuccessful negotiations aimed at his acceptance of the presidency.

Dr. Weigmann expressed determination not to accept the presidency unless his demands are met. The Palestine agency is composed half of Zionists and half of non-Zionists.

Every faction at the congress demanded that the non-Zionists of the agency, which represents Jewry in dealings with Great Britain and the League of Nations, should be reduced. Among the American non-Zionists members are Felix M. Warburg, Dr. Cyrus Adler and Rabbi Samuel Schulman.

Exploring Priest Tells of Hazards

Father Hubbard Narrates Fight in Aleutian Mountain Gale.

Seattle, Aug. 28 (AP).—Telling of battling the worst storms in the seven years he has been exploring glacial and volcanic phenomena in the Aleutian Islands, the Rev. Bernard J. Hubbard, "glacier priest," arrived today.

Storms twice repulsed efforts of Father Hubbard's party to climb Shishaldin Volcano, the priest said, and during one attempt a 100-mile gale almost blew them off the slopes.

The third attempt met with success.

Landing Damaged Ship Wins Praise for Flier

Because he safely landed his damaged plane after it had been thrown on its back by a collision in midair, Ensign Gordon F. Maxwell, of the Naval Reserve, today is recognized as a hero.

Secretary of the Navy Swanson yesterday sent a letter praising him for courageously remaining in the ship when he could have taken to his parachute. The accident occurred July 26 during gunnery training practice near Los Angeles, Ensign Maxwell's home.

The Family Marketer

Fish, Fine and Fresh, Tempts Housewives Who Go Marketing.

There are still signs of the storm on the market. A fish dealer was very successfully creating a small tempest in his shop.

"Somebody said over the radio that there was a scarcity of fish, and everybody seems to believe him. Here we were loaded down with them. Got a new batch coming in to-morrow."

Take the hint, brand, new, fresh fish on Tuesday. Why not plan your dinner to-night around that idea? Why not have a good old southern fish fry right in your own kitchen?

Down at the waterfront you can find trout, large or small, flounders, croakers, or spots, shivering away in their icy resting places for a smoking frying pan. Coat them with meal, plunge them in, and fish them out.

Tomatoes Cheap

You don't have to worry about the vegetable end of your meal. Tomatoes are cheaper than they have been for several weeks. You can buy them for 5 cents a pound, and serve them stewed with liberal amounts of bread squares, or sliced as a cool and pleasant contrast to the warmer portions of your dinner. Besides, if eyes were made for seeing then surely tomatoes are their own excuse for being. To garnish a plate with them is to assure its attractive appearance.

And peas, they're getting to be quite the travelers. You can buy them not only from Washington State, Oregon and California, but Texas as well. A wholesale dealer said he thought those from California and Texas were the sweetest to be found. However, we must admit, it's a matter of taste. You may buy them for 10 cents a pound. Be sure to put plenty of butter on them before serving. If they've cooked a minute too long you may soften them in this way, or if they're too soft, the salty, creamy taste seeps in and somewhat counteracts their mealy taste.

Good Buys.

Lima beans and string beans are not only good bets now, but good buys, too. They're on the market for 20 cents a pint, and three pounds for 25 cents, respectively.

If you're looking for something different to tempt your indifferent family, try broccoli for a change. Two pounds for 25 cents. In case you didn't know, it's the green member of the cauliflower family.

Just supposing you feel slightly luxurious, let us suggest asparagus. It's one of the Jersey visitors on the market, and looked decided snooty underneath a sign saying 35 cents a bunch.

The Luscious Carrot.

But back to earth again with carrots. Tell the straight-haired miss they have hair curling qualities if she eats them in sufficient quantities, and tell the obstreperous young athlete he can never be a football player without them. It might work. Spinach is gone, so vent your pleadings on carrots now.

Try as hard as you can, but you can't get away from the lure of the apple pie. Serve it nice and hot in the winter, and a la mode in the summer, but serve it. Greenings, 5 cents a pound, are supposed to be delicious ingredients. A wholesaler recommends Stayman's. However, it's the Delicious apple that's ideal for uncooked purposes.

Avocados are getting to be quite plebeian if you know where to look for them. A store down on the waterfront sells them in lots of 20 for $1. If you buy the extremely large ones you might get only eight, but consider the size. If you're having a party and want to serve avacado salad, here's the way to buy them.

Grapefruit has always had wide popularity as a breakfast food. Will you be glad to hear you can buy them three or four for 25 cents?

Convict Deporting Balked by Ritchie

Federal Effort to Ship Man to Ireland Fails; Pardon Issued.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 28 (AP).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie today halted efforts of the Federal Government to deport Gordon H. Reid to Ireland by giving the man a full pardon and restoring his citizenship to him.

The action followed refusal of the Government to deport Reid to Canada where his family resides. Immigration authorities, Ritchie said, had prepared to send Reid to Ireland, his native land.

Reid, credit manager of a Baltimore store, was sentenced December 23, 1930 to five years on conviction of taking $8,000 from the store. He was paroled by the Governor June 6 on condition he would be deported to Canada.

"I see no occasion to send the man to a country in which he would be a complete stranger," said the Governor, "and the only way to prevent it is to grant him a pardon."

Reid is 37 years old, a Canadian World War veteran and naturalized.

Nurse Settles Case Against Naval Man

Chicago, Aug. 28 (AP).—A $100,000 breach of promise suit filed several weeks ago by Mary Wirt, 23, Denver Naval Hospital nurse, against Percival Hunter, jr., former Annapolis midshipman, has been settled out of court, it was said today. The nurse's attorney entered a stipulation in court for dismissal of the suit.

Miss Wirt charged that Hunter had promised to marry her after meeting in the hospital where she was his nurse.

The attorney said his client would leave Chicago for Los Angles next Wednesday and later go to the Orient as a missionary.

Death Inquiry Fund Is Willed By New Yorker

Fearing Murder, He Left $100,000 Reward for Killer.

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—Fear of a violent death led Horace Elliot Wadsworth, wealthy New Yorker, to bequeath $25,000 for an investigation into the cause of his death and $100,000 in rewards to those who might help in bringing his slayers to justice, it was disclosed today.

Reports from Reno, however, where Wadsworth died August 9, said an autopsy performed August 11 showed his death was due to acute alcoholism, but that a private investigation was under way.

The will bore a codicil providing for investigation and rewards and expressed Wadsworth's belief he might be murdered.

Wadsworth, who was in Reno seeking a divorce, is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Baker Wadsworth, of Stratford, Ont., Canada. Disposition of the estate totaling about $902,000 depends upon whether he was estranged from her, his second wife.

Missouri Gets $400,000 More to Assist Jobless

(Associated Press.)

Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, announced yesterday a grant of $400,000 to Missouri for aid to the unemployed, bringing that State's total advances to $1,759,110.

The grant was made on the basis of one Federal dollar for three State dollars spent during the second quarter of the year.

Lieut. Loper Transferred.

Ft. Humphreys, Va., Aug. 28 (Spl.). Lieut. H. S. Loper, C. E., instructor in the engineer school, has been relieved of command of the 377th Conservation Company, Camp Ritchie, Cascade, Md., where he has been since May 21, and has reported at the school as instructor.

Long Kisses

Three Couples Hold Pose More Than Hour in Resort Contest.

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—Three couples qualified for the final round of Coney Island's "world championship kissing marathon" today by remaining locked in each others' arms for more than an hour.

Seven teams entered the contest, in which no holds were barred, but they began dropping out after the first three minutes. The only married couple, Mr. and Mrs. George Newcombe, of Long Island, observed their golden wedding anniversary two years ago, and held out for 19 minutes.

The finalists, who will compete for the championship Wednesday, are Ethel Kane and Michael Calabrese; Helen Gould and Jerry Cardinal, and Betty Burns and Frank Ferreti, all of New York.

For the Love of "Mike"

Three good reasons for radio—Jane Froman, who will appear on a one-hour program, Columbia, in early October; Charles Winninger, of the Show Boat, and Connie Boswell, of the incomparable sisters, back on the air Friday night.

First developments in N. B. C.'s activity for the fall and winter are the appointments of Herluf Provenson as assistant manager, in charge of WRC, and Carlton Smith, also as an assistant manager, in charge of WMAL.

Next to come will be the definite assignment of announcers — some to WRC and the others to WMAL. In the past, the mike men have switched about, running first to the Press Club Station and then hiking it over to the Eleventh street compressor. The big wigs know right now where your favorite N. B. C. local announcers are going to call home, excepting a couple. When they are set the world, or rather this part of it, will be informed.

Adding to the enthusiasm of the not-so-far-away things, is the announcement that Washingtonians will hear 38 new network programs every week from the two N. B. C. stations. This takes place with the switch to standard time from daylight on September 24. Now, hold your breath.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA man, was scheduled to talk to 1,000,000 Americans on the big program Sunday night. The WJSV official ensemble was awaiting his arrival.

Said one to another, "Do you know the general when you see him?"

"No. What does he look like?"

"Real tough, like a bulldog," answered official No. 1.

Later on they found out that the man who was listening to this exchange in the studio was the general's brother.

The program got under way. Gen. Johnson began his dynamic speech. The telephone rang. A woman's voice was at the other end of the wire.

"Could you switch on some dance music, please?" she began.

Ted Church assured her that he certainly could not.

"Well, you see," she said, "we are giving a surprise party for my daughter. She's almost here and we wanted something jazzy."

●

Bigtime is crooking her bewitching finger these days to those four shades of sepia—The Dots.

These singing, stomping, moaning musicians from down at Fourth and N are under a 60-day option to Loew's Inc., one of the companies left in show business that can guarantee an act enough time to justify taking along an extra shirt on tour.

Just to show the sentiments of one professional who heard The Dots, we list Louis Armstrong's comments—"Preaching days! That big boy does me better'n I do myself!" That gives you a rough idea. If you want a better one try them on WMAL.

Bob Trout, who has added to his accomplishments the compiling of another one of those great American opuses, is shrouded in woe.

Those dramatic, tender and flaming episodes of several years on broadcasting and associations in the Capital with the great and near great are gone. A janitor, cleaning out the Trout apartment (maybe it should be cleaning up), threw the precious pages away. So, when the Nobel Prize is given to somebody else, go ahead and draw your own conclusions.

Waves.

Stormy Weather Harold Arlen and his choir are being tempted by a network. (Well, who wouldn't be?)

That smash tune of 1926—"The Birth of the Blues," is set for a week from tonight from WRC, a la Frank Crumit, along with the Plantation program.

Lucky Strike will probably come back the first week in October.

Those muchly Boswelled Boswells, Connie, Vet and Martha, return to the air, Friday, 9:30 p. m., WJSV, Columbia.

Robie, Gen. Johnson's right-hand lady, rushed right up to him at the NRA broadcast, in the middle of his speech. The general hesitated a moment, then smiled and went on. She had removed a paper clip that was making a fuss in the mike.

It's the Mills Brothers tonight, sustaining. Sustaining a whale of a lot if you ask us, which you didn't.

Vince Callahan (N. B. C.) back from a week-end at Virginia Beach. No sunburn.

Rudy Vallee, who built a big lodge in his home State, Maine, and called it "Happy Valley," hasn't been able to find time for a day at home all summer, says a specially dispatched dispatch to this department. So what? So nothing.

Jane Froman returns to the air in early October, along with Nino Martini, over Columbia. Program to run an hour with band and comedian also listed.

A. N. Wecksler, of The Post's news staff, was coming through the zoo yesterday afternoon when he heard queer noises, even queerer than regular zoo noises, and you know what they are. He looked down a lane. What sounded just like a duck was a man. He wanted a ride to town. He got it. On the way down he imitated pigs, lions, cats, dogs, elks and a beaver. He was Percy Patrick Posey, radio imitator, out with the animals getting new material.

Local radioland was down at a brewery last afternoon, guests of one of Washington's biggest $2 corporations.

We'll print these any time—561 persons have been added to the pay rolls of Crosley Radio Corporation since August 1.

Charles Winninger, the Capt. Henry of the Show Boat, is called by artists the easiest man on stage, screen or ether to draw.

Mrs. Coolidge Also Known for Silence

Never Granted Interviews on Public Questions Nor Discussed Politics.

While Mrs. Calvin Coolidge was noted as one of the most brilliant conversationalists who ever graced the position of First Lady of the Land, she was also as silent as President Coolidge from a public point of view.

During the years she was in the White House and as wife of the Vice President of the United States, Mrs. Coolidge never made a public speech or allowed herself to be interviewed on a public question.

Her theory was that the first commandment of a politician's wife should be: "Thou Shalt Not Talk Politics." Mrs. Coolidge did, occasionally, see writers for newspapers or magazines and was most gracious in helping them with their stories, but never as coming from her.

As a special aid to the work of the Girl Scouts of America, she wrote the story of her girlhood for the Girl Scout Magazine. But she would not allow its publication outside that magazine, although a goodly sum for the organization was offered.

Mrs. Coolidge's value as a news source is, however, secured to posterity, for it was she who first told the story of the electric horse President Coolidge rode for exercise in the White House.

Here's Woman Who Smiles at Mending Sox

By Ruth Anne Davis.

The shopper saw her sitting by the window with a heap of sewing piled on the table before her. Sympathetically she looked a little closer and saw the pleasantest smile illumine her face. The shopper marveled. Was it true, she wondered? Did people actually look cheerful over darning and mending? She climbed the stairs and knocked on the door.

"Come in," called a cheery voice. She entered the mending shop and explained her visit.

The proprietor and staff laughed readily as she continued her work. "I like sewing; I like taking frayed shirt collars and cuffs and remaking them. There are many, so many ways of serving," she said, "but this is mine."

Next time your darning bag is filled to overflowing, and your husband's shirts are drastically dilapidated, call this shop and you'll be helped out in a very satisfactory way. Incidentally, tell all the bachelors and widowers you know that instead of discarding their slightly-worn shirts, socks, to send them here for renovation.

If you can't afford to buy your own typewriter, why don't you rent one? You might think the rates are prohibitive, but you'll be surprised. A Seventeenth street typewriter company will let you have one, either portable or standard model, for $3.00 a month. If you're writing a book, or studying for exams, or just want keyboard practice, here's an economical solution to the "can't buy" problem.

Dainty lace and silk underthings are close to a woman's heart in more ways than one. There's a kind of luxury about feeling that your wardrobe is perfect to the smallest detail. Nor need you dread the expense of catering to such inclinations. A downtown store has lace, silk, satin, mesh, and gros grain brassieres, in white, pink and tea-rose, ranging from 25 cents to 50 cents.

In this day and age it's a case of children won't be children, but grown-ups will. Yessir, we're at it again. It's a game. A perfectly fascinating game. The kind that gets you started on it and drives you crazy because you can't solve the puzzle of it. Hail, all you cross word fans, all you devotees of jig-saw, stop by a department store and see what we have with us now. It's small enough to be carried around with you in your pocket or purse, and it comes in a neat little case. Call us and we'll tell you what and where, the store will tell you how, and then you'll know why.

Are you planning an automobile trip? Do you do a lot of driving around town? In any case you'll be interested in the automobile seat pads on display in a G street store. If you don't need one yourself and have a friend who does, there's no more unusual, and thoroughly usable gift to be found. They come in gray, tan, black and brown, designed so as to serve as a single cushion or to open out with a back. Price 59 cents.

We've seen modernistic furniture, and all kinds of smoking stands, but we hadn't seen a modernistic electric smoking stand until yesterday. It would be perfect for that new room. You might see it and then decide. It has two ash trays, a cigarette container, and an electric lighter. Its designer did a lot with simple lines, and finished it in black and chromium.

Whoever thought of it? Well, we couldn't say right off, but it certainly was a splendid idea. You know, the refillable lipstick. Haven't you seen it? A downtown store sells them in pastel cases to match the rouge which comes in matching boxes. And when the lipstick is all used up, drop by the store and get a filler, for only half what you paid for your original stick.

Music with us wherever we go! That's the new idea. Don't wait another day. Go right down now and equip your car with a radio. You might give preference to a certain kind for several reasons: Its new tubeless doubleshielded, vibrator type "B" eliminator; efficient automatic volume control; chassis, speaker and eliminator in a case that occupies no more space than your hot water heater, two points tone control, involves only two electrical connections. You ask the man at the radio shop and he'll tell you even more. We'll be hearing you!

Melon Balls Garnish Novel Fruit Course

If you have exhausted your variety of fruit appetizers, try this new one. On the curve of a narrow slice of honey-dew melon place balls of watermelon and cantaloupe. Use as many balls as the honey-dew crescent will hold, alternating the colors, and garnish with a sprig of mint.

French and Festive Is This Cheese Souffle

For a change from meat when the weather is sticky and hot, cheese souffle is the almost perfect answer. Light, fluffy and golden brown, it will stir the pride of the housewife and tempt the appetite of the family.

Made of nourishing eggs and cheese, it forms an ideal dish for the meatless luncheon or dinner. The recipe follows:

3 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca,
1 cup milk, scalded,
1 cup grated cheese,
3 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon-colored,
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten with 1 teaspoon salt.

Add tapioca to milk, and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add cheese and stir until melted. Cool. Add egg yolks and mix well. Fold in egg whites. Bake in greased baking dish, place in pan of hot water, in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 50 minutes or 30 minutes in ramekins. Souffle is done when it shrinks a trifle and is brown. Serves four.

When made with tapioca and properly baked, souffles do not fall but stay tender, moist, and light while being served.

Peppers and Tomatoes Popular Filled Up With Good Stuffing

All year 'round, in hundreds of good dishes, green peppers and tomatoes play second fiddle. But every year at about this time they pop up and steal the show. Stuffed lusciously with meat or rice or spaghetti, for example, then baked just enough to blend all flavors happily—right now they are glorifying many a luncheon or dinner as the main dish.

Those mad-caps Burns and Allen are strong for them. Authoress Fanny Heaslip Lea dotes on them—especially stuffed with rice and ham. Folks generally are so enthusiastic over them I wouldn't wonder if a whole book might be written on the subject.

But it would certainly simmer down to these few easy cooking rules. First, on the matter of green peppers themselves. Buy them large and firm and regular in shape. Then cut them in half lengthwise (or just cut a slice off stem end) and carefully take out all pulp and seeds. (Seeds are sometimes very hot, so be sure you get them all out.) Then wash the peppers and drop them into boiling salted water (1 teaspoon salt to 1 quart water). Cook them no longer than 3 minutes, for you don't want them squashy. Then stuff them and set them in a shallow greased pan, in about a half inch of hot water or stock. Right oven temperature is 350 to 400, and length of baking time, 20 to 30 minutes.

Peppers Stuffed with Corn

Now for a first recipe, there's nothing so timely as green peppers stuffed with green corn—a grand flavor combination if there ever was one.

Here's how: Prepare 6 green peppers as directed above, and stuff them with a mixture made like this: First, cut and scrape enough cooked corn from the cob to make 1½ cups. Then cook this gently for a few minutes in ¼ cup butter. Next, mix in 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 1 cup ripe olives finely chopped, 1 egg beaten slightly, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Fill the peppers and top with ¼ cup fine, dry crumbs mixed with 1 tablespoon melted butter. Bake 30 minutes at 350 F. This makes a slick luncheon dish. If you'd like it for dinner, put it in the company of a thick slice of ham spread first with prepared mustard and brown sugar, then baked in milk.

To Stuff Tomatoes.

Now I want to inject a little talk about stuffed tomatoes. Because many of the stuffings used for peppers are equally good in tomatoes. And because it makes a pretty as well as tasty effect to serve stuffed tomatoes and peppers together.

First you want to be careful to get good firm tomatoes without blemishes. Don't peel them and don't precock them. Just cut a slice from the stem end, and scoop out the pulp—carefully, so as not to break the outside wall of the tomato. (Keep the pulp for sause or seasoning.) Sprinkle the inside of each tomato with ⅛ teaspoon salt. Then you're ready for the stuffing, and here's a recipe that's favored far and wide.

Send For More Recipes.

More stuffings- Oh yes. I'd like you to have a rice and ham stuffing for peppers, a nut stuffing, a delicious sweet potato stuffing—and others. I'd also like to give you the recipe for scrambled eggs with green peppers and onions, for Creole tomatoes Mexican tomatoes and many other dishes from peppers and tomatoes that are economical as well as delicious, and that will help to give variety to meals all winter long. My newest bulletin, "Best Ways to Cook Green Peppers and Tomatoes," gives all these recipes and more too.

What Today Means

"Virgo."

If August 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:20 to 9:30 a. m., from 8 to 9:30 p. m. and from 11 to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 1 to 2:30 p. m. and from 6 to 7 p. m.

It is possible that you will feel in a depressed frame of mind on this date and that you will not feel equal to many of the demands of life. Do not give in to this despondent feeling. Business activity will be dull, with a probable sharp upturn in the late afternoon. Strenuous exercise will bring lasting benefits. An ideal day for short trips on the water.

The child born on this August 29 will quite possibly not resemble to any great extent, either of his parents. This will prove true of his physical as well as his other characteristics. He will not get along well with the other little ones in the family. He will be the brunt of many a jest and will have to stand for a lot of teasing. A game little one, with great physical courage.

If August 29 is the date of your birth, it is possible that you are the sort of person who never fails to succeed in conducting his business affairs, but who invariably runs into snags and difficulties in the conduct of his personal and family affairs. In business you have capacities that make it possible for you to manage and direct immense transactions involving thousands and thousands of dollars. You are invariably at the head of things, you can direct and lead others and they are happy to work for and with you. In your home you are quite the reverse. You are inclined to be petty and to dictate; there is lacking in you that spirit and willingness to cooperate which is so essential. Your weak points crop out at home and unfortunately you make little effort to bring them under control.

Born on August 29, you are not a lazy person; you always find something of interest to do. You are inclined to work your employes and servants a little hard, but you expect no more of them than you are willing to do yourself. You are conservative in all things that are of a public nature; on some matters you probably have very radical ideas, but these you seldom express. Your friends will be made mostly through business contacts and few of them will be intimate. The women will make many friends through their churches and through their work in charitable organizations. To the latter, they will devote much time.

Successful people born on August 29:

George W. McCrary, jurist and statesman.
James Proctor Knott, legislator.
George F. Hoar, senator.

The Race.

by Katherine W. Smith.

Come, take my hand, and let us race
Down to the bottom of the hill,
While leaves of autum seek to chase
Our flying feet. Come, run until
The dusts of bitterness are swept Away, like clouds that hide the sun,
And Laughter, watching us, has leapt
To cheer us when the race is run.
We run a race with Life, we fill
The air with shouts of gayety.
The goal's the bottom of the hill
Where Love will be the referee.

Crooner Clan Owes Success To Woman Fan

Feminine Announcers Are Taboo With Own Sex Radio Man Says.

Woman listeners-in on the radio are responsible for the success of the crooning clan. But these same women will not permit radio broadcasting companies to use woman announcers, according to Herluf A. Provensen, manager of WRC.

"Attempts to use woman announcers brought so many protests from woman listeners-in that the idea was given up," said Mr. Provensen. "The women just wouldn't stand for women announcers.

"It's true there are plenty of women speakers on household hours, but there, the proposition seems to be different. The women listen in on these hours purely for information. An announcer is different. A woman announcer seems to arouse some element of resentment, annoyance, or call it what you will, from the woman audience. And don't ask me the answer. I'm no psychoanalyst. But we have a proper regard for the opinion of our women listeners," concluded the young radio executive with a broad smile.

But even though the would-be feminine radio announcer must overcome the hostile reactions of her own sex, a bouquet of posies was handed to the average girl radio aspirant by Provensen.

Girls Better Prepared.

"The girls who come in for auditions are much better prepared than the average man. They have studied more voice, have thought out their specialty and have generally worked up their acts better than the average man. I don't like to have to let the boys down. But it's true. Don't you think so?" said Provenson, turning to announcer Edwin Rogers, who also supervises the WRC auditions.

"You bet," responded Rogers. "Wouldn't we like to see some new and good tenors or barytones. Not crooners. But with all the applications for auditions, the radio has plenty of room for young men who can really sing."

Every radio aspirant who visits WRC gets his or her chance for an audition. The first audition, according to Provensen, must be discounted considerably in judging ability. Nervousness and "mike fright" reduce effectiveness an average of 40 per cent. He added. "For some unaccountable reason, about 80 per cent of the folks taking auditions also say they are suffering from colds, sinus trouble or something that prevents them from doing their best at the time."

Cold Got Him Job.

"That's so," broke in Rogers, "but I got my first announcing job because I had a bona fide cold. I went in to WOR in New York for a singing audition and had such a cold that I talked the song. John S. Carlisle didn't seem to think so much of my singing voice, but he took me on for announcing."

The chief difficulty with most people taking auditions, said Provensen, is imperfect preparation and a lack of ideas on presentation. Their voices are often entirely untrained and the instinct of showmanship is lacking. He added, "we like applicants with ideas. Most of them just bring in an accompanist and sing the usual sort of song. Their chances would be much better if they would think up some novel way of presenting their specialty. They should remember, too, that expression is just as important as tone quality."

About four-fifths of radio aspirants are singers, the rest being people who wish to read poetry or make talks. While the chances of the former are better, Manager Provensen says, there is a decided trend toward tabloid plays and dramatic productions in local programs planned for the fall.

"In May we found a 'natural' in Marie Fowler," said Provensen. "She was placed on a commercial program within two weeks. Her case was an exception."

White House Daughter Led Public Affairs

With the right of franchisement of women and the right of women for equal opportunity for political and civic recognition taken as a matter of course in the world of politics today, the fact that Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Woodrow Wilson, was the first member of a White House family to espouse publicly the cause of women's rights is of particular interest. In the days of the suffrage campaign, Margaret Wilson, daughter of the White House, slipped off many times to sit about the open fireplaces and discuss plans at the headquarters of the National Woman's Party, then on Lafayette Square. The battle smoke of the famous White House suffrage pickets had not died down when Miss Wilson placed herself in the receiving line at headquarters.

Miss Wilson, it is remembered, also forwarded teaching of music in the Washington public schools. She was the chief sponsor of the system of using public school buildings as community centers, which has now resulted in the community center activities being carried on in our National Capital.

Fall's Soft Dress Wools Full of Smart New Ideas

Directed by Amos Parrish

Lots of women who have been avoiding wool dresses for the "because-I-don't-like-that-scratchy-feeling" reason, are going to go in for them this season. Most of them you could put right onto a baby's tender skin and have him coo with delight at their softness.

Certainly there's nothing like wool for an early fall dress . . . in the before-coat-wearing time. Gives you the feel of the season as nothing else can do.

But it's not only their feel that is going to please folk. There are new ideas in dress wool weaves and colorings that will take their eyes before they've even touched them.

Frosty Look New.

Some of them have a bit of white worked into their dark or bright colors to give a look as frosty as the rime you see on the grass if you happen to be up to greet a November dawn.

And because of its frosty effect this wool is due to be a big favorite for tailored dresses and sports wear . . . those things you wear out of doors.

Then there are light wools that mix a touch of a second color into their background. Just a hint of brown on a green, for example. Not enough to make you think of brown . . . just enough to make you say it's different.

Knitted fabrics do this a lot, or woven ones that have a knitted look. And they are most fashionable for sports things.

Grainy Surfaces.

You've seen the new grainy surfaced silks probably. And you'll see grainy surfaced wools, too. They look as though some very clever needlewoman had taken fine yarns and threaded them in over the surface after the background had been woven.

And ribbed wool . . . there's a fabric that takes you back at least forty years, when all sorts of ribbed fabrics were the thing. These new ones have a very soft surface with a slightly hairy effect and ribs that are well upstanding . . . almost like a fine corduroy.

Leaflet on New Colors.

These new woolens take color gorgeously. In fact, many a color you'd never think you could wear has a most flattering effect when it's put into wool. Which reminds us—have you sent yet for your copy of our leaflet of new falls color samples. It will help you to decide whats most becoming to you. If you'd like it send the filled-in-coupon with requested inclosure.

Wash-Day Tasks Now Made Easier

Washing and ironing are among the hardest of the regular household tasks, but it is often possible to lessen the work considerably by careful thought and planning.

Many housekeepers solve the problem by patronizing commercial establishments for certain types of work, and some are organizing community laundries.

Where all the laundry must be done at home, hot and cold running water, labor saving machinery, convenient arrangement of equipment and good methods will reduce the time and labor requfred.

The old-fashioned open tub has obvious disadvantages, no matter how used, and there are obtainable today many inexpensive devices that represent an improvement over the washboard.

One is a perforated funnel made to fit in a wash boiler. This works on the principle of a coffee percolator and increases the circulation of water through the clothes. A vacuum cup on a good strong stick, which was the forerunner of the vacuum cup washing machine, makes it possible to wash very soiled or infected clothing in a strong solution without immersing the hands. The stick can be used to lift wet clothes from the boiler to tub, although a smooth old broomstick is equally satisfactory.

What are sometimes called "portable washers" are also to be recommended. One such type is pump operated by an electric motor which maintains the circulation of water in the tub and keeps the clothes in motion. Another consists of a set of inverted cones which act on the vacuum principle mentioned above.

Flat Center Piece For Formal Dinner

For a formal dinner a flat center piece is desirable so the guests won't have to dodge the posies in order to converse. Gladioli, cut from the stem and floated in a flat bowl will make a charming table bouquet. They have the lazy dignity of water lilies without the expense. Try pink blossoms in a black bowl with black candles, or, for a luncheon, yellow in a blue bowl.

Social Agencies Council Opens Canning Center

Will Provide Work for Many Jobless; Produce Donated to Charity.

In cooperation with the Salvation Army, the Washington Council of Social Agencies has arranged to open a new canning center in Georgetown which will replace for the balance of the canning season, the Gordon Junior High School Center, which had to be closed a week ago. This new canning center will provide facilities for the white canners of Washington.

The new center will be located at 1075 Jefferson street, Georgetown, in the headquarters of the Salvation Army for that section. The Washington Gas Light Co. has contributed a number of stoves for the use of the canners.

Fruits and vegetables are being supplied by the Government Experimental Farm, the market gardeners and private individuals, while a great many of the "subsistence" gardeners are planning to can the produce of their own gardens.

Hundreds of jars have been contributed for the use of the canners as the result of an appeal published in the newspapers and a radio talk given by Joseph D. (Radio Joe) Kaufman last week.

More than 2,000 cans of produce have already been placed on the shelves for the coming winter as the result of canning activities to date, and it is hoped that the opening of this new center will result in an equally large number being added to this store. Every canner keeps approximately three-fourths of the amount of food canned for her own family, the rest being placed in a pool which will be allocated to the various charitable organizations for distribution during the coming winter.

Charted Menus Cut Down Bills

Planning meals for a week in advance, where at all possible, has obvious advantages.

It permits of most economical buying, reduces the daily effort of meal preparations to a minimum, and precludes that tendency to hysteria which generally ensues with a last-minute discovery that an all-important ingredient is no longer on the pantry shelf.

One hour each week, set aside by the housewife for concentration, with pencil in hand, on the requirements of the larder for the coming seven days, will give her the remaining 167 hours for other, perhaps less onerous, pursuits.

Let her first draft her menus. Then consult the pantry or the cook, and, after learning what supplies must be replenished, and making a note of these, with amounts and brands desired, she can ponder the matter of perishable foodstuffs required for each day.

This dispatched, she can draft on the spot her day-by-day telephone orders—providing she buys her foodstuffs by 'phone. Or, if she is the type who prefers to make her selections first-hand, the same notes will be ready and waiting for the daily morning market foray.

Visiting the market is much the best way. It keeps one in touch with seasons, prices, qualities, and choice. One forgets what one does not see. And a last-minute change is often an improvement. "It's a wise woman who changes her mind. A fool never does."

Sleep Malady Found in D. C. 9 Times in '32

Only Two Cases Reported This Year, However, Says Fowler.

Since January 1932, Washington has had 11 cases of sleeping sickness, encephalitis lethargica, District Health Department records show.

Ten were fatal—in fact all of the nine in 1932 resulted in death.

Further examination indicated that the city has never been threatened with an epidemic as is now scourging St. Louis.

The last case on the records—the only one in which recovery was made—was reported last June. This year's other infection, in April, was fatal.

No Comment Made.

The nine cases of the disease were reported without comment by Health Officer W. C. Fowler, in his annual report made public yesterday afternoon.

Statistics which cover 1932, indicated increases in the birth rate, death rate and the rate of illegitimate births.

The birth rate rose to 20.66 per 1,000 of population from 19.13 the previous year. The death rate jumped to 16.12 per 1,000 from 15.86.

Infant mortality rose also in 1932. In 1931, of each 1,000 children born, 71.5 died before reaching a year of age. In 1932, there were 73.6. Dr. Fowler said the white race was responsible for the increased rate.

Heart Disease Leads.

Principal causes of death were: Heart disease, 1,631; malignant growths, 722; nephritis, 693; pneumonia, 667, and tuberculosis, 599.

The total number of deaths were 7,949, of which 5,018 were white and 2,931 colored. The white death rate was 14.06 per thousand and the Negro, 21.55.

Dr. Fowler's report showed the number of contagious diseases in 1932 were much less than in 1931. Then, 8,531 were reported, and only 4,547 in 1932. This drop was due mainly to the measles epidemic in 1931, when there were more than 4,000 cases.

Tuberculosis showed a marked increase, 1,154 cases reported, against 1,062 in 1931. Typhus fever was recorded for the first time in several years.

Sleep Malady BafflesDoctors; Still Spreading

Surgeon General Goes to St. Louis to Aid in Finding Cure.

St. Louis, Aug. 28 (AP).—Lights in St. Louis medical centers are burning far into the night as science seeks an explanation for a widening spread of a mysterious "sleeping sickness" which has claimed 40 lives.

The fight has the attention of Federal, State and local authorities. Tomorrow Surgeon Gen. Hugh S. Cumming is expected to view the situation at first hand.

Encephalitis, as the disease is known to science, first appeared in St. Louis late in July.

Authorities immediately decided the cases should be handled like an epidemic. Patients were sent to isolation hospital. Since then 283 cases have been reported in the area.

The struggle to reach an understanding of the cause and method of transmission of the disease started almost immediately. Dr. J. P. Leake, senior surgeon of the U. S. Public Health Service, arrived here three days after the epidemic was reported.

Gang Shooting Perils Children

Chicago, Aug. 28 (AP).—With machine gun, shotgun and pistol, four gangster assassins opened fire on John Scalzitti, 37, today on busy Sixty-third street on the South Side.

Their victim slumped over with bullet wounds in the abdomen. Police said he was an alcohol peddler who expanded his territory too far.

A block away a traffic policeman ran toward the speeding automobile. He retreated when the gunmen aimed at him. The car disappeared.

At South Town Hospital, Scalzitti moaned, "I don't know why I was shot or who did it. I never harmed a soul in my life. They must have been looking for someone else."

Physicians said he probably would die.

Scalzitti had just finished lunching with an unidentified companion, who, police said, may have "put the finger" on him.

U. S. Influence Over Officials In Japan Cited

Tokyo, Aug. 28 (AP).—Influence of the United States on Japanese civilian officials was cited in the defense of 11 naval officers charged with complicity in the assassination last year of Premier Isuyoshi Inukai as their court-martial neared an end today.

The young officers were justified, their attorneys held, in considering acceptance by Japan of the London naval treaty a "national betrayal" to the United States.

The surrender of Japanese civilian authorities to "American diplomatic blandishments" was held to be partly the result of a so-called social campaign by former Acting United States Ambassador William R. Castle, jr., and his wife three years ago.

Testimony ended with Lieut. Hiroshi Yamagashi, a defendant, arguing that Japanese naval leaders had the right to obtain all the strength necessary for the empire's safety.

"If the constitution of the empire opposes this stand," he said, "then the constitution must be altered. Other powers will suffer more than Japan if the naval limitation ceases and a competition in building is resumed."

Young was arrested in New Orleans recently and it was stated that a hearing had been requested in his behalf prior to signing of removal papers.

Hoover Goes Fishing On Financier's Yacht

Two Juries Picked In Chicago Killings

New Court Rules Hasten Trials of Criminals, Say Prosecutors.

Chicago, Aug. 28 (AP).—Two juries were completed today to try three men and a woman on murder charges.

Pointing out that the killings occurred only a month ago, prosecutors said progress of the cases showed the value of the recent speeding up of court processes.

Five hours was enough to select the jury to try John Scheck for the killing of Policeman John G. Sevick in a dash from a courtroom where he had been arraigned for murder. His mother is to be tried later on charges of smuggling a gun to him.

. . . . and Chesterfields are not like any other cigarette.

As soon as you light up a Chesterfield, we believe you will notice that they are mild. And before very long, you will certainly notice that they taste better.

These things don't just happen so. There isn't any accident about it. For we put into CHESTERFIELDS all that Science knows and money can buy to make them "satisfy."

Arlington Head Flays Choice Of Engineer

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

B. M. Smith, member of the Arlington County Board who has advocated the appointment of a capable engineer to prepare the plans and specifications for the proposed county-wide sewerage system, declared yesterday that more consideration should have been given the appointment made by the board Friday.

Smith said: "While Allen B. McDaniel, who was appointed, may have all necessary qualifications, I do not consider that a short interview by the board is sufficient, regardless of recommendations.

"As a member of the county board, it is my purpose to consider the interests of the taxpayers and I feel that a casual interview for such an important position is not enough and a careful investigation of all applicants is necessary."

Arlington County's NRA unit officers will meet tomorrow evening at the courthouse at 8 o'clock. The purpose is to complete plans for the county-wide canvass of business firms and consumers.

Gen. Harry A. Fellows who is in charge, asks that all members attend.

A survey of the county reveals that practically all business houses are displaying the Blue Eagle. The task, according to Gen. Fellows, will be to organize groups to canvass the county to obtain pledge-card signatures.

The Arlington County Democratic Club will meet this evening in the Rucker Building at Clarendon.

There will be a meeting of the executive committee of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. N. Rex Hunt, 106 North Hamilton avenue, at Clarendon.

Clark Protests Shift in Trial

Appeals Montgomery Rule Moving Case From County.

Appeal from the order of the Montgomery County Circuit Court granting a change of venue was filed yesterday by Berry E. Clark, former clerk to the Montgomery County Commissioners.

Clark, tried three times on first of 97 charges of embezzling county funds, the jury disagreeing in each trial, asks the Maryland Court of Appeals to set aside the order because passage of said order was an "abuse" of the court's discretion.

The motion was filed with Clayton K. Watkins, clerk, by Attorneys Albert M. Bouic, Thomas L. Dawson and F. Barnard Welch.

Motion for change of venue filed several weeks ago by State's Attorney Stedman Prescott alleging that the State could not get a fair trial in Montgomery County, was signed by 300. It was granted August 1 by Judge Charles W. Woodward.

Schall Defends Ford Code Plan

Better Than NRA Terms Could Be, Says Senator.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Schall (Republican), Minnesota, said yesterday that "to put a Baruch-Johnson code over a man of the standing of Henry Ford, who led the way to the maximum wage scale, would be a political blunder beyond the range of serious contemplation."

In a formal statement commenting on Ford's failure to come under the NRA code for the automobile industry, Schall predicted the prompt appearance of a "Ford code" which would yield the wage earner 20 per cent more income than the NRA plan.

"The country at large, both the car users in town and on farms and the wage earners, will recognize Ford's plan as so far superior to that of Washington, D. C.," Schall said, "that even an 'associate of Bernard M. Baruch' will hesitate to carry out any 'big stick' threats against our Western 'Henry.'"

"Elimination of pay cuts and furloughs, extension and preservation of the merit system, a Civil Service court of appeals and a uniform rule on annual leave are major items to be sought at Kansas City."

High rents, Mr. Steward charged, are working a hardship on the 65,000 Government employes in Washington. Definite action is expected after the convention.

Trees Menaced.

PICTURES of our country barren of elm trees are painted by Dr. Neil E. Stevens, who is making a survey of the rapid spread of the Dutch elm disease.

Dr. Stevens is studying progress of England, Germany, Holland and Italy in their war on the blight which has taken a stupendous toll. He also is making a survey of the disease in New Jersey.

T. R. Peace, of the Imperial Forestry Institute, England, is quoted on the ravages. On a stretch of 7¾ miles surveyed annually for three years, the disease killed an average of 7 per cent in 1903, 12 per cent in 1931, and 20 per cent in 1932. Inasmuch as the disease is now but of six years standing in England, its ravages can not be considered lightly.

On the Firing Line.

R Kent Beattie, Forest Pathology, Agriculture, is heading the work on the Dutch elm disease in New York, New Jersey and Ohio. Curtis May, of the Dutch Elm Disease Laboratory, is his assistant.

O. N. Liming, E. B. Lambert are in charge of the scouting in the New Jersey area, assisted by Paul R. Miller, L. R. Fate, P. V. Mook and N. E. Stevens.

L. R Gill is in charge of the cruising outside the heavily-infected New Jersey region.

New Jersey State Forester C. P. Wilber has furnished the government scientists with four technical men, as well as 12 men from one of his Conservation Camps.

A Narrow Escape.

Johnson is an excellent swimmer and assisted others in the party to safety. He swam nearly a mile for help and was laid up a day from exposure. What About Us?

We hear each and every employe
Is getting a raise in his pay.
We read in the papers he'll soon be
At work on a five-hour day.

We understand that unemployment
Will soon be a thing of the past.
There will be more peace and enjoyment.
And we'll all be prosperous at last.

We hear all these things and we question
The fact that they really are true.
For, we still have heard no suggestion
That the Government has workers, too!

Income Taxes From Fairfax Drop for Year

Only 11 County Residents Paid in $5,000 Class, Records Show.

There are only 11 persons in Fairfax County, Va, paying State income tax on annual incomes in excess of $5,000, according to the records compiled by County Commissioner of Revenue James U. Kincheloe. A total of 176 made taxable returns last year, as compared to 209 for the previous year. This year, 152 showed taxable incomes of less than $3,000 and 13 of between $3,000 and $5,000.

Residents of the county will pay $5,214.80 less into the State treasury than they paid in 1932. Assessments amount to $6,510.37, compared to $11,725.17 a year ago.

Providence Magisterial District residents led the county with an income assessment totaling $3,574.36, with Mount Vernon Magisterial District second with an assessment totaling $1,758.15.

The difference in assessed values of intangible property other than incomes is small with a total of $4,337,041, compared with $4,351,807 last year.

A decline is noted in both assessed value and taxes on tangible personalty segregated for tax purposes. Commissioner Kincheloe states the lower valuation was caused by revaluation by the taxpayers rather than an actual reduction in the amount of personal property.

Total assessed value of tangible personal property amounts to $1,991,263 on which a tax of $32,810.09 has been levied, compared to $2,197,727 with a tax of $36,497.08 in 1932.

Brentwood Woman's Death to Be Investigated by Jury Tonight.

An inquest into the death of Mrs. Ella M. Schrodt, 58, killed August 16 at her home in Brentwood, will be held tonight at 8 p. m. by Justice of the Peace Robert M. Joyce, at Mount Rainier.

John C. Mulligan, 45, jewelry firm collector, alleged to have been Mrs. Schrodt's common law husband, is in Hyattsville Jail on charges of murder pending the inquest.

Prince Georges police have been unable to find a motive for the crime or the weapon used. Mulligan told police Mrs. Schrodt was killed in a fall on the bathroom floor.

Job-Hunters Mob Employment Office

200 Protest as Expected Work for 100 Proves False Alarm.

A near riot resulted yesterday when more than 200 men who had lined up to apply for 100 jobs at the Prince Georges County branch of the National Reemployment Service were told the office had opened to register applicants and not to give out jobs as advertised.

Some had been standing all night to be first in line when the office opened at 7 a. m. It had been announced that the office would accept 100 for work at the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture.

When the men were told that the office had opened to ascertain the number of unemployed and to register them and not to give out the jobs, the men became surly and began pushing and shouting. Attaches finally calmed them, however.

More Room Given To Works Board

Need for more space by the Public Works Administration is causing the moving of several Government bureaus to new quarters.

The Federal Power Commission is being moved into the National Press Building from the Interior Department. The entire sixth floor and part of the seventh have been rented, according to Harold A. Candland, executive secretary of the Public Buildings Commission, who is supervising the moving.

Candland explained renting of offices for the commission is necessary for safe-keeping of valuable records. The only available Government buildings are temporary structures subject to fire hazard, he said.

The Government paid less than one-fifth of one per cent interest yesterday, to borrow $109,296,000 through the sale of 91-day Treasury bills.

The interest rate, 0.14 per cent on an annual basis, was with three exceptions the lowest ever paid for Federal borrowings. On December 28 last year, the Government paid 0.09 per cent on a similar issue. On October 19 an interest rate of 0.14 per cent was paid and on November 3, an interest rate of 0.13 per cent.

A city-wide campaign to obtain signed pledges to support stores displaying the Blue Eagle was launched yesterday by a corps of volunteer workers.

Of 450 President's reemployment agreements distributed, more than 400 have been signed, indicating 90 per cent of the city's employers are members.

More than 9,000 consumers' pledges are in the hands of the workers who report much interest is being shown by citizens.

Recognizing the service of the Alexandria Fire Department in pumping water from the Virginia Public Service Co.'s power plant after last week's storm, a $50 check has been sent to Chief J. M. Duncan, jr., by J. W. Howard, manager of the northern Virginia division.

Other than flooded plant causing lights to be out in many sections, no damage resulted, Mr. Howard reported yesterday.

The managers of the Alexandria Children's Home have appealed for clothing suitable for children from 18 months to 12 years old. Shoes especially are needed for the little ones. Clothing and shoes may be left at the home at any time.

The need is urgent, Mrs. L. Sexton, superintendent, declared yesterday. Lack of suitable clothing, she said, has kept many of the children from Sunday School.

The Headache.

THE headache is so handy, it serves such useful ends, when I don't wish to bandy a lot of words with friends; when I don't wish to chatter for half an hour or two, on things that do not matter my headache starts to choo. The carpenter or cutler comes ringing at the door; I tell the stately butler to say my head is sore; his call should be delightful, but I can't see him now; my headache's truly frightful, it dislocates my brow. The caller knows I'm faking, he can not help but know that all this phoney aching is but an empty show; he may be sore as blazes, as sadly he departs, and use such drastic phrases as wrench all human hearts; he's feeling somewhat smaller, such treatment makes him blue; but when he'd dodge a caller he'll have a headache, too. Some visitor would greet him, in his palatial home; he'll say, "I cannot meet him, a headache racks my dome." The headache is so handy, it is the one excuse that is a constant dandy, that's fit for instant use. It is the great protection against long-winded bores, who come from every section to hammer at our doors.

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—With my years of professional hobnobbing with those whose names mean front page news, I still believe the really dramatic stories come from those whose lives are obscure, anonymous.

Late the other night I dashed from a downpour of rain to the protection of a sheltering awning off Broadway. A blind man was standing there, waiting patiently until the storm had cleared. As the shower prolonged itself, we began talking.

"Broadway is a beautifully exciting street," he said. "I remember it in the old days when I could see. Flashing lights, beautiful women, exhilarating shows. You know, I thought I would be a composer. Not a great one, but I thought I could write lovely music. But, I didn't have much chance.

"Right after I arrived here, the war started. I wrote a few songs for the shows then, but I hadn't gotten far ahead. I met many of the stars. I knew some of them well enough to call them by their first name.

Dreams.

"Anyway, I went to France. Well, over there I lost my eyesight. That didn't matter so much, but I lost something else. The heart, or whatever you want to call it—it went. I was no good any more. Now I stand on Broadway night after night and dream of those few adventurous days I have here when I thought I would do something great.

"Sometimes people pass me and I hear their voices—voices of people I knew in those younger days. They don't recognize me. But, I know them. I feel that they are living in the glamour of the theater asI once knew it. I don't mind. You can only go through so much of life, and I've gone through my share. I have my dreams."

An Illusion.

I thought to myself that here is the only man who still retains the illusions of Broadway. One wanted to cry out that here is not the scintillating, glamorous Broadway of 1918. Here is a street that has dropped its royal traditions for the tinsel ballyhoo of a carnival midway. Here is where one feels no more the respectful reverence for people and players who aspired to royalty behind the footlights.

Old man, it isn't that Broadway that you knew before you went gallantly away to war.

It's a street that he never knew. But then he would never know. Observing through the illusion of his blindness, it would ever remain the land of lovely make-believe he first had known.

As we stood there talking, with the rain pouring off the marquee of a dark, bankrupt theater, I didn't pity him. Rather, I thought him fortunate, and a person to be envied.

How to Keep Well

Pimples and Vitamin D.

THERE are several causes of pimples that are rather generally accepted and some others that are not. Among those in the first group are the sex glands, failure to keep the skin clean and the sebaceous glands emptied, and the influence of age. A new one but recently proposed is a deficiency in vitamin D.

Among the second group ar the eating of candy and other sweets in excess and the eating of pork. The theory that eating too much sweets is the cause has been considerably upset by the failure to find high blood sugar in cases where pimples are bad, by the fact that clinically no unusual prevalence of pimples has been noted among diabetics and others with high blood sugar, and by the failure of diet to clear up pimples.

The theory that eating pork is the cause was never more than a crude inference.

Of the several cases the most important by odds, from the practical standpoint, is failure to keep the skin scrupulously clean and the sebaceous glands well emptied. The new one recently pitched into the arena of battle by two university students that pimples result from a deficiency of vitamin D. These two students were unhappy because of the affliction. They had learned that a good treatment for pimples is exposure to ultra-violet rays. They knew of cases where such exposure had brought about temporary improvement. They knew of the accepted opinion that the activation of ergosterol in the skin by the action of light thereon produces vitamin D. The inference is that this action is responsible for the benefit that comes from the use of ultra-violet.

Following this line of observation and reasoning they concluded to try viosterol on themselves. They were convinced that their acne was made less. Armed with this visible proof and making use of their powers of persuasion they induced 35 pimply associates in the university to try the method.

After four to five weeks Messrs. Doktorsky and Platt reported that 90 per cent of the students had had an improvement of 75 to 80 per cent. Probably they were freer from pimples than was the average boy or girl. The remaining 10 per cent were improved about 50 per cent.

Toward the latter part of the experiment ten of the students stopped the treatment for two weeks, whereupon their skin became as pimply as it was originally. Those who continued treatment during this two weeks did not relapse. The report states that blood determinations made during the test showed no change in calcium.

The treatment used was viosterol taken internally. The beginning dose was ten drops a day. That used later was 20 drops a day.

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—Some relaxation of industrial activity, due probably to diverse circumstances, is discernible as the calendar points for Labor Day, traditional turning point between summer's sluggishness and autumn's revival.

Seasonal forces invariably bring a let-down at this time, so that recessions fit into the general pattern which customarily shapes the course of trade during August. This year, a few additional factors have appeared, in the opinion of most observers, to influence, at least mildly, the broad trend.

One of these, it is assumed, is the national recovery program, with its unique features. More and more businesses are hanging out the Blue Eagle as the Government pushes its drive to completion; many of them appear to reflect uncertainties over increased production costs pending the appreciation in purchasing power which is expected eventually to take up the slack. Another, apparently, is a natural reaction from the strenuous activity of spring and early summer when industry was expanding rapidly.

Setbacks Are Moderate.

Such setbacks as have appeared have been generally moderate. In retrospect, their origin seems to have corresponded rather closely with the pricking of the speculative bubble in securities and commodities late last month. On the whole, "corrective movements" have not been regarded as either unusual or disturbing, the belief being that they have leavened unwholesome elements which helped the growth of the recent boom.

The magazine Steel says that steel consumption continues to decline, placing the average of production at 48 per cent of capacity, a loss of 3 points last week. Seasonal influences, absence of higher prices and the slow maturity of the Government's public works program suggest that the downward trend will extend into September, the review asserts, but it adds that sometime next month the swing is expected to collide with a general rise in prices, which steelmakers hope will arrest the decline."

Automobile production was moderately lower last week, according to Cram's reports. Output is estimated at 50,047 units, a decrease of 3,873 from the preceding week, and "sharper relaxation" is indicated for this week.

Output Higher in August.

Total August volume is forecast at 220,000 cars, or about 20,000 under July. Nevertheless, this total would be 57 per cent higher than August, 1932.

Mercantile agencies report that retail buying has not yet been affected by higher prices. Dun & Bradstreet says "distributive totals continue to mount" in all sections and that the momentum of trade movements during the summer seems fairly certain to endure until it is revitalized by "the normal reinforcement which autumn demands will bring."

Freight traffic in the last reportable week—that ended August 19—increased 12,086 cars over the previous week, a smaller than seasonal trend, although the rise was sufficient to bring the total for the first 23 weeks of 1933 above the 1932 figure for the same period.

Virginia Public Service Co. Declares Dividends

The board of directors of the Virginia Public Service Co., at a meeting at 117 South Washington street, Alexandria, declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 per share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $1.50 per share on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, both payable October 1, to stockholders of the company of record, September 11, according to an announcement by L. W. Van Bibber, secretary-treasurer of the company.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Rayon—Yarn prices continue strong and supplies limited, according to trade quarters. Buyers generally are said to be on an allotment basis.

Chemical colors—It is reported that carbon black deliveries to the tire trade have slowed up. Lead pigments and zinc oxides are also quiet.

Lead—Battery manufacturers continue to take fair supplies of refined metal to correct their underbought position for September, according to trade reports. August shipments are estimated at 40,000 tons, a considerable increase over earlier estimates.

Foreign Bonds Lose in Highly Irregular Day

Domestic Industrials Make Best Record as Sales Total $9,825,000.

Sales, while somewhat larger than Friday, totaled only $9,825,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate issues eased one-tenth of a point to 80.4.

Foreign Bonds Decline.

French 7½s lost 4 points and British 5½s were turned over in sizable volume for a decline of 4¼ points. Bonds of Poland, Germany, Dutch East Indies, Sweden, Argentina and Australia were off 1 to around 3 points.

Domestic industrial loans, as a whole, made the best showing. Studebaker 6s were run up 3½ points, and gainers of 1 or more included American Metal 5½s, Certainteed 5½s, Chile Copper 5s and Mead Corporation 6s.

B. & O. Issues Lose.

Rail losers of fractions to a point or more include some issues of Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Denver & Rio Grande, Kansas City Southern and Pennsylvania. Similar gains were registered by several liens of Missouri, Pacific, Union Pacific and Western Pacific.

Maturities of American Telephone were fractionally higher and those of other prime investment classifications were steady to firm. Activity in the utilities was rather restricted.

United States Government securities were quiet, but moderately higher. There has been little selling pressure on the list of late owing, apparently, to the Federal Reserve system's expanded open market buying.

North Carolina Tobacco Sales To Start Today

Eastern Markets in State to Open; Parley Thursday to Plan Higher Prices.

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 28 (AP).—Simultaneously with a State-wide movement to increase prices, eastern North Carolina tobacco growers will start their crops to markets tomorrow at the new Bright Belt warehouses open for the season's sales.

400,000,000-Pound Crop.

Eastern North Carolina Tobacco Market sold only 293,750,000 pounds last year at an average of $12 per hundredweight, as compared with sales of 476,618,000, at $8.80, in 1931. This year's crop has been estimated at 400,000,000 pounds.

Other markets in the Bright Belt, besides the "big four" of Greenville, Wilson, Kinston and Rocky Mount, include Wendell, Zebulon, Goldsboro, Smithfield, Tarboro, Washington, Ahoskie, Farmville, New Bern, Robersonville and Williamston.

The only markets now open in the State are the border markets of the South Carolina belt. Middle belt North Carolina markets open September 19 and old belt sales begin September 25. The Asheville burley market, opening in November, will be the last to start sales.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 28 (AP).—Tobacco sales in Georgia last week totaled 10,728,002 pounds at an average price of 7.47 cents a pound, a much lower figure than that of the previous week due to the closing of several markets.

Figures for the previous week set the season record with the sale of 20,053,604 pounds reports at an average price of 9.80 per pound.

All markets were closed at this time last year and therefore there were no comparative figures for the past week's business, H. K. Ramsey, official statistician of the State Department of Agriculture, said. Several markets have already closed this year with indications that practically all will suspend business by August 31.

Stocks Slip Narrowly As Prices Mark Time

Broad Recovery in Dollar on Foreign Exchanges Practically Ignored; General Motors Rises Point in Active Sales; Turnover, 2,124,219 Shares.

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—Stocks changed narrowly today as the dollar made a broad recovery and wheat skidded at Chicago.

Not long ago, so sharp a slump in foreign exchanges—indicating a revision of Europe's views toward inflation in this country—would no doubt have had a reflection in our share market, but traders today gave it little, if any, attention. Prices were about steady virtually all day; there were mild reactions at both the opening and the closing, the latter being sufficient to bring small net loss in the averages. Sales totaled 2,124,219 shares.

Sterling tumbled more than 12 cents during trading hours on the stock exchange and French francs also weakened. There had been a sag in these rates Saturday when trading was nominal, but this morning the decline—conversely, the rise of the dollar—became pronounced.

Inflation Developments Ignored.

The most readily advanced reason was the assurance of high administration officials that inflation for this country had not been discussed at last week's Hyde Park conference, a development which traders had not had time to take fully into account.

Stocks seemed to be marking time with pre-Labor Day hesitancy. Motor shares looked fairly strong at intervals, especially General Motors, which was the day's most active issue at a net advance of a point. The Texas vote on prohibition repeal failed to stir alcohol issues, most of which turned moderately reactionary.

Rails looked steady as further July earnings statements appeared; also, initial traffic reports for last week created a favorable impression.

U. S. Steel Off 1 Point.

U. S. Steel was heavy, off more than a point. Production, according to one trade review, has gone under 50 per cent of capacity and may work lower next month, although higher price schedules might check the dip. Bethlehem also lost a point. Miscellaneous leaders off as much included Consolidated Gas, Celanese and Case. American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse, Du Pont and Western Union lost fractions, while American Telephone, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio firmed slightly. Hudson Motors, Johns-Manville, Studebaker, United Fruit and McKeesport hardened.

Business seemingly approaches the end of summer with what market circles would call a good undertone. Credit apparently is to be kept as easy as possible and Federal Reserve resources will be utilized when, as and if needed. Meanwhile, the Blue Eagle will have an opportunity to show its mettle.

Wheat's losses of more than a cent a bushel were attributed in large measure to the weakness of sterling.

Cannery Will Pay More for Staples

Mount Airy, Md., Aug. 28 (Spl.).—Probably the most welcome news received recently by local farmers was the announcement of the Mount Airy Canning Co. that the concern would pay growers 25 per cent more for their corn and tomatoes than the contract price.

The increase in the rates, Nelson H. Fooks, president of the concern, explained, is in keeping with the Agriculture Department's suggestion that canners of farm produce do their part toward increasing purchasing power of the consumer by voluntarily raising the prices paid growers. Action on the part of the cannery, one of the largest in Maryland, was voluntary. Mr. Fooks' company, by virtue of its early action, probably becomes the first cannery in the State to announce the increase over and above contract prices.

Employes of the factory will likewise benefit by the wage increase provided by the canners' code, which sets the minimum wage for employes at 22½ cents per hour.

The Markets at a Glance

	Mon.	Fri.
Advances	294	594
Declines	326	89
Unchanged	146	90
Totals	766	773

Stocks.

Stocks slipped backward a fraction as prices apparently marked time in a late-summer industrial lull. The broad recovery of the dollar was practically ignored by traders. General Electric rose 1 point in active sales. The price index declined 2-10 of a point. Sales totaled 2,124,219 shares.

Bonds.

Foreign bonds lost 1 to 4 points, probably owing to the sharp reaction in foreign exchanges. Domestic industrial loans gained most during the mild session, with appreciations running from 1 to 3½ points. The average quotation was down 1-10 of a point. Transfers rose to $9,825,000.

Curb.

The curb market milled about narrowly. Mining shares displayed a firmer tone in the afternoon. Several oils rose fractionally. Transfers dropped to 306,000 shares.

Wheat.

Grains moved slowly backward, hindered by an indifferent demand and weakness in the British pound sterling. Wheat was 1⅛ to 1¾ cents lower at the finish. September wheat sold at 87⅝, May, at 95¾.

Cotton.

Cotton closed slightly off. The general market lost 4 to 10 points, despite midday rallies. The firmer position of the dollar and Liverpool cables were blamed. December sold at 9.81, October, at 9.62. Liverpool prices were unchanged.

Rubber.

Sugar.

Raw sugar was unchanged at 3.60. Refined also remained the same at 4.70.

Coffee.

Silver.

Gold.

Dollar.

The United States dollar rallied sharply on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.51½ to the English pound; 5.57 cents to the French franc, and 33.90 cents to the German mark.

Missouri State Policyholders May Not Lose

Insurance Company, Facing Receivership, Plans to Meet Obligations.

Heartening news for local policyholders of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co., for which a receivership is being sought, was announced yesterday by J. A. Kamerow, life insurance counsel, with offices in the Transportation Building.

Mr. Kamerow said this company has been meeting all of its obligations and, in view of its importance and large amount of insurance in force, will, no doubt, be able to liquidate and pay each policyholder dollar for dollar with respect to guaranteed policy values.

He believes that owing to the importance of the company, its policyholders will be reinsured in one of the larger companies as it would appear most desirable for one of these to take over the Missouri company and issue new policies in lieu of old ones, thus giving policyholders complete protection.

Early Reorganization Seen.

Mr. Kamerow said in this particular case, it is estimated by authorities, that some of the larger companies will be more anxious to acquire the Missouri company and protect its policyholders than in the case of a company of lesser importance. He thinks it quite likely that a complete reorganization or merger will be consummated by October or November.

In reviewing the history of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co., with headquarters in St. Louis, Mr. Kamerow said it has been in business 31 years; had assets in excess of $155,000,000 and insurance in force of more than $1,000,000,000. He recalled that on January 1, 1933, it had a surplus of $2,095,342 and reserves of more than $125,000,000.

With such a background he expressed belief that the company was in a position to meet all of its liabilities, but in so doing would be forced to enter its reserves, a procedure which would not be considered good business methods. The action taken by the insurance commissioner of Missouri, he thinks, will prevent the possibility of its policyholders losing any money.

The company has a capital stock of $5,000,000, according to Mr. Kamerow. Any expenses attached to the liquidation, he reminded, will necessarily come out of the stockholders' funds. He described the difficulty in which the company finds itself as not owing to mismanagement or actuarial methods, but rather to other reasons.

The company, he said, by reason of adverse criticism and unjust opinion regarding it, had found it impossible to write its usual amount of new business and to collect cash premiums on its old policies. It was therefore, he said, forced to utilize its surplus.

In a recent bulletin, Waggaman, Brawner & Co., Inc., investment securities, 1700 I street, states: "The increasing demand for credit is plainly evident. This means improvement in bank earnings. Improved conditions are aiding in making recoveries of doutful accounts. This will eventually increase book values. The low level of bank stocks, with the improved outlook, makes them very attractive, and investments made now should prove profitable.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—The feature on the stock exchange today was the buoyancy of gold shares based on the advance in bar gold Saturday. Some pront-taking occurred in these shares when the price of bar gold declined today, but gains were only partially reduced. Oil shares continued strong while investment issues lapsed into dullness. International issues, including nickel, Brazilian traction, hydroelectric and radio shares, all reached higher levels. The market closed firm.

Paris—The slump in the dollar and the pound sterling sent prices on the Bourse upward, all issues improving with the exception of rentes, which were lower. Profit-taking later in the session failed to halt the advance, which particularly favored Bank of Paris, Suez and rubber shares. The closing was firm.

Berlin—The Boerse opened cheerful, especially mining shares, with a fair volume of buying reported. After a temporary setback the market again picked up and closed steady.

Mining Issues' Strong Course Features Curb

New York, Aug. 28 (AP).—The curb market milled about narrowly in dull trading today to close somewhat irregular. Prices slid off a trifle in the forenoon, but strengthened around midday from which point stocks backed and filled listlessly.

Mining issues displayed a firm tone in the afternoon, Newmont, New Jersey Zinc and Lake Shore Mines gaining a point or so. Pan-American Airways was an outstanding firm spot, advancing 4½ points on good demand, following an nouncement of an extensive expansion program designed to increase the company's business with the South American republics.

Utilities were narrow throughout, Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric finishing virtually unchanged. Commonwealth Edison, which is subject to a thin market, rose 4 points in nominal dealings. Alcohol issues closed a shade lower, while in the petroleum group small fractional gains predominated.

U. S. Dollar Rallies On Foreign Marts

London, Aug. 28 (AP).—The United States dollar rallied sharply today as continental pressure relaxed and buying orders appeared.

Opening at $4.63½ to the pound, it showed a slight depreciation from Saturday's close, but last week's falling tendency soon disappeared as the possibility of Washington developments checked selling. The rate moved under $4.60, reached $4.57¾ at noon and closed almost 9 cents better on the day at $4.54⅞.

The French franc, after slight weakening in early dealings on profit taking, tended to strengthen again. It closed at 81.84 to the pound, compared with Saturday's close of 82.03.

Berlin, Aug. 28 (AP).—Over the week-end the United States dollar dropped in value to 2.95 marks, compared with 3.035 marks on Friday, the last previous official quotation. (Today's rate was equivalent to a mark value of 33.90 cents, against 33.33 Friday).

Grain Prices Drop Slowly In Dull Sales

Wheat, Corn Close Weak as Exchange Rates Sink Sharply.

Chicago, Aug. 28 (AP).—Grains moved slowly backward today, held back by an indifferent demand and weakness of the British pound sterling.

Scattered selling was noted in the pits at the start of trading, and with demand at a low ebb, prices declined around 2 cents a bushel in wheat before a rally set in. Liverpool wheat prices showed relatively little change, in British money, but were 1¾ to 1⅞ cents lower in terms of dollars, owing to a sharp drop in exchange rates. Corn was almost lifeless, following wheat but slightly and lacking any motive power on its own hook.

Wheat closed weak and 1⅛ to 1¾ cents below Saturday's finish. Corn also was weak and ⅜ to ¾ off, and provisions, 8 to 38 cents lower.

Easier Stocks Discourage.

Adding to discouragement in the wheat pit was an easier tone to the stock market and rains over drought areas in the Southwest. Fairly heavy precipitations in the Southwest, with consequent improvement in seed bed conditions, indicated that the 1934 crop might be planted under more favorable conditions than was generally believed. Uncertainty over the extent of acreage reduction plans for the United States and the attitude of Argentina, regarding the international program recently agreed on at London, also served to dampen bullish enthusiasm.

Millers were reported fair buyers of cash wheat, but wheat prices never did reach as high as Saturday's close. The movement of the newly harvested crop to southwestern interior markets was again slow, three terminals reporting 75 cars today against 282 cars a year ago.

Corn Proves Sluggish.

Corn was sluggish with some selling of the yellow cereal prompted by scattered rains over the belt. Cash interests continued to buy September contracts and sell the deferred deliveries. A substantial reduction in the visible supply of corn was ignored.

Oats, rye and barley were affected by the same factors as wheat and corn and sold lower.

Metropolitan Closes Briefly as Gayety Prepares to Open

Picture House Dark Thursday For Renovizing

For the first time in several seasons, the Warner Brothers' Metropolitan Theater, F street at Tenth, will close tomorrow night for renovation and refurbishment, preparatory to the inauguration of its new season of 1933-34 within the course of a few short weeks.

This announcement, made late yesterday by John J. Payette, general manager of the Warner interests in this territory, ascribes as a partial reason for the closing of the house the acute traffic difficulties occasioned by the repaving of F street.

During the brief period of its darkness, the Metropolitan will be subjected to a thorough house-cleaning and the rejuvenating attention of painters, carpenters and sound technicians, who will prepare the house in every way possible for a gala reopening somewhere about the middle of September.

Among the improvements promised at the Met will be a new "perspective" screen and new proscenium draperies which will be hung behind the arch to give the high stage a new effect.

The specific date of reopening and the line-up of attractions for the ensuing season will be made known in due course.

The Metropolitan Theater, it will be recalled by seasoned picturegoers, was for many years the Capital's foremost picture house and boasts a history thickly punctuated with notable achievements. It was there, for example, that Pola Negri made her screen debut before Washington audiences in Ernst Lubitsch's "Passion," the story of Du Barry; it was there, also, that the first sound and dialogue pictures were shown in the Capital; it was there that all of First National's greatest productions were shown, many of them for test runs, to establish "exhibition values" to be applied throughout the Nation, and it was there that members of the Cabinet, Senate, House of Representatives and Diplomatic Corps did most of their film viewing. The Metropolitan is entitled to a bit of going over!

Favors "Tax" to Legit.

Crosby Gaige, noted theatrical producer and president of the newly formed National Theatergoers Association, is heartily in accord with the view recently expressed by Helen Hayes and reported in this space that in returning to the legitimate stage she felt she was paying the "tax which all theater-trained movie stars owed to the theater."

"I have felt for years," says Mr. Gaige, "that motion picture actors and actresses were doing themselves a grave injustice in not appearing from time to time in legitimate plays. They owe it to their public to give them the opportunity to see the stars in person as actors and not merely in personal appearances out of character.

"They owe it to themselves and to their art to get that audience 'feel' which is so vital and so necessary and which they can only get by acting on the stage of flesh and blood.

"Because this is so firmly my conviction, I am now discussing with a motion picture star, whom I deem the finest male character actor in America, the leading part in my new play, "Hat, Coat and Glove," in which Emil Jannings will star this fall in Berlin and which Max Reinhardt is to do in Vienna. The part has tremendous opportunities and deserves an equally outstanding American actor to do it justice here in New York."

Three guesses as to the identity of the movie star Mr. Gaige has in mind.

Among the personalities to be met in a cursory review of the newsreels currently on view come to mind President Roosevelt assuring the Boy Scouts that the NRA is going to work just as their organization has and for the same general reasons; Amos Pinchot, brother of the governor, advocating governmental promotion of placer gold mining to increase employment and purchasing power; Gen. Italo Balbo arriving tri-triumphantly home in Rome; Tony Canzoneri taking a boxing lesson from Bert Lahr, the stage and radio comic, of all things, and Al Smith boosting the NRA with everything he's got! Quite an assortment, everything considered.

Gayety to Open.

From Pooh-Bah Jimmie Lake of the Gayety Theater, Ninth street practically at the corner of F, comes the timely announcement that his burlesque bazaar will be thrown open to the cash customers—and a few of us "skulls"—in time for a Saturday matinee performance on September 2, which is by way of being Saturday of the present week.

This year's policy will embrace new shows and new faces each week at a popular scale of admission charges.

For the opening attraction, "Girls from Paris," Manager Lake has gathered together a company of comedians, singers, dancers, display artistes and coryphees that may be said to represent the cream of the burlesque crop.

Leading the company will be burlesque's funniest comedian, Charles "Red" Marshall, ably assisted by Murray Leonard, Mary Joyce, Gladys McCormick, Katherine Irwin, Delores Dawn, Harry Levine and that ever-popular Gayety favorite, Mlle. Jeannette Alabassi.

In the recent passing of Marie Cahill, who died in New York on last Thursday, the theater has lost another of its most beloved characters. Back a little nearer the turn of the century than this, Miss Cahill was one of the favorites of the musical comedy stage, famed for her "long-skirted choruses." When Elsie Janis was just emerging from the classification of juvenile prodigy into the estate of recognized artiste, it was in revamped versions of Miss Cahill's vehicles that she made her first definite impression upon the theater-going public. These then popular-priced entertainments usually were booked into the Lafayette Square Theater, now known as the Belasco.

Tale of Three Generations.

Considerable to-do is already being made over "Broadway to Hollywood," in which Jackie Cooper, Jimmy Durante, Alice Brady, Frank Morgan, May Robson, Madge Evans and scores of others are to be seen at Loew's Palace Theater, come Friday.

Originally called "Show World," this subject is unique among present productions in that it is neither straight drama nor exclusively musical comedy. Rather is it reported to be legitimate heart-drama with musical embellishment.

Something of the scope afforded authors and players may be gathered from the fact that "Broadway to Hollywood" encompasses the story of three generations in the theater. Against a background of intimate backstage happenings flows a tale of alternate success and failure, romance and tragedy, fortitude and despair.

One may only say in contemplation of the impending event that M-G-M seems to have assembled a cast admirably equipped to do justice to precisely such a story.

The Dean Returns.

Those who have visited the executive offices of the National Theater these past two days have been greeted by the cordial and suntanned smile of Col. William Harryman Rapley, dean of Washington theater operators. As owner-manager of the National, Mr. Rapley has been identified all his life with Capital amusements, as was his father before him.

Mr. and Mrs. Rapley returned two days ago from their lodge at Lake Spofford, N. H., where they spent the summer. Mr. Rapley already is deeply immersed with his manager, Stephen E. Cochran, in plans for the ensuing season, to be inaugurated Monday, September 11, with a return engagement of Noel Coward's "Design for Living," starring Corinne Griffith, former star of the silent screen.

"Little Sylvia Froos" is the name she is known by in the radio studios and backstage. But those who call her so are thinking not of the girl of today, but of the tiny tot from New York who was the baby Rose Marie of ten years ago. Today, Sylvia, who coheadlines the current stage show at the Earle with Hal LeRoy, is 18. She was barely seven when she filled her first theatrical engagement in South Norwalk, Conn., and toddled out of the theater with the princely sum of $62.50 for three days' work! The Earle would like to get her for that now!

Shades of Edward Bellamy!

They are about to make use of the basic idea of "Just Imagine" all over again out on the West Coast. "Just Imagine," you will remember, was a Fox picture that began with a grand idea that died a disconcertingly early death by reason of the correspondingly early demise of its authors' imaginations. It purported to jump ahead a half-century and give us a peek at the world as it would be 50 years from now.

It is Mr. Hubbard Keavy, chief of this column's Hollywood finger-in-the-wind department, who takes his Morse telegraph key in hand to wire that a picture suggested by the popular pastime of looking into the future, which has been troubling some of the better movie minds for a year, may get under way soon. As the title, "Fifty Years From Now," indicates, the idea is to show life in the year 1983.

The latest story written around the idea, penned by Thompson Burtis (who has authored two melodramatic tales of life in the future) begins in the current year when scientists freeze a young couple up in huge chunks of ice, to keep them in cold storage for 50 years.

The girl and the boy (tentatively, Miriam Hopkins and Cary Grant) give themselves to science because they are unemployed; the scientists agree to take care of their families.

When They Thaw Out.

When the ice is melted, Miss Hopkins and Grant find a strange world. Among the developments are Governmental control of the home; complete conquest of germ diseases; increase of the life span; synthetic clothes (very scanty) made of chemicals; less work of all kinds; more games, sports and hobbies and a widespread dabbling in the arts; liquor that can be inhaled; noiseless, dustless and smokeless cities; and controlled weather.

These and countless other possible changes in living conditions were suggested by prominent scientists, educators and doctors, gathered in a survey by Philip Wylie, a scenario writer, early this year.

Burtis uses these suggestions only in the background of his story, which is a comedy of manners rather than a melodramatic adventure. Naturally, the story ends happily, with Miriam and Cary falling in love and preferring a vine-covered cottage and children to a 2-by-2 aluminum apartment and a State-reared family.

At least the Messrs. Wylie and Burtis have had the precautionary good judgment to be able to blame it on the "prominent scientists, educators and doctors" to whom the concocters of "Just Imagine" through their shortsightedness found it impossible to pass the buck!

Those who find it impossible to pass the buck, you may have noticed, usually find it necessary a little later to cry, "Deer, deer!"

Just imagine!

"LAUGHING AT LIFE." Mascot picturization of a story by Ford Beebe, starring Victor McLaglen, with Regis Toomey, William (Stage) Boyd, Ruth Hall and Ivan Lebedeff. Directed by the author. Reviewed Monday afternoon.

With a cast that sounds like a roster of all the he-man players, "Laughing at Life," is about the best author-directed picture yet presented, with Ford Beebe taking Victor McLaglen's measurements to the fraction of an inch and fabricating a yarn that meets the most exacting demands of the confirmed McLaglen fan.

A sort of Capt. Flagg-Sergt. Quirt combination, this, with Mr. McLaglen apparently getting along swimmingly without the able assistance of Edmund Lowe.

Opening with a series of events which establish Mr. McLaglen as a soldier of fortune par excellence, he is first seen getting into trouble in 1913 by dabbling in gun-running while excavating the Culebra Cut.

Then Tahiti and Shanghai (in 1914), Canada (1917); in 1918 court-martialed for insubordination in the A. E. F., and, finally, as the trainer for the revolutionary forces in the mythical South American country of Alturas. Quite a record!

Into the Lowe-less (if not lawless) tale of adventure comes a pretentious cast, many of whom have relatively little to do, save add color. Especially is this true of the women, Lois Wilson, as Mr. McLaglen's deserted wife; Ruth Hall, who furnishes the later love interest, and Conchita Montenegro, the flamboyant Alturian cabaret dancer and barmaid.

But for the gentlemen of the cast, what a plethora there is! Towering over them all is Mr. McLaglen, but not so completely dominating but that Henry B. Walthal, president of Alturas; Ivan Lebedeff, revolutionary leader; William (Stage) Boyd, the United States agent, and Regis Toomey, the long-lost son, have ample opportunity to display their talents.

Among the many others participating in more or less prominent roles are Noah Beery, Frank Darro, Tully Marshall, Henry Armetta, Dewey Robinson, Guinn Williams, J. Farrell MacDonald, Buster Phelps, Pat O'Malley, William Desmond, Lloyd McCullough, George Humberd and Edmund Breese.

Heading the list of supporting subjects is James A. Fitzpatrick's discourse on Weird Haunts and Strange People, "Tapua to Kalabahai," a head-hunter travelogue of unusual interest. In "Marriage Humor," with Harry Langdon, supported by Vernon Dent and Nancy Dover, there is an amusing marital situation that is peculiar neither to master nor to servant.

Title Expresses His Philosophy

"Laughing at Life" is what Victor McLaglen, boxer, miner, British army officer, soldier of fortune and actor, has been doing all of his. It seems eminently fitting, therefore, that he should be appearing in a picture of that name—reviewed on this page—at Loew's Columbia Theater this week.

Witness Tells How Lamson Cried 'Murder!'

Calm Before Discovery, Gave Way to Anguish, Woman Testifies.

San Jose, Calif., Aug. 28 (AP).—Contrasting pictures of David A. Lamson, calm and obliging when she first saw him in the yard of his Stanford campus home and anguished a few minutes later when he rushed from the house crying his wife had been murdered, were drawn today by Mrs. L. M. Place, a rental agent, at Lamson's murder trial.

The witness testified Lamson was tending a fire in his back yard on Memorial Day. When she asked permission to show his house to a prospective tenant, she quoted him:

She called to her client, Mrs. Alfred Raas, San Francisco, to come from an automobile.

"We heard a strange sound inside and then in two or three minutes Mr. Lamson opened the front door," she testified. "There was blood on his hands and face and on the shirt he then wore. He cried:

"'My God! My wife has been murdered.'"

Mrs. Place said Lamson, whom the State charges beat his young wife, Allene, to death in the bathroom because of marital difficulties, cried out to his wife in endearing terms after they went into the house.

In spite of the anguish he expressed, she testified she saw no tears.

1934 Cotton Slash Urged on Wallace

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 28 (AP).—A plan to reduce the 1934 cotton crop to 9,300,000 bales by limiting the amount that can be ginned was urged today upon Secretary Wallace to immediately raise prices.

United States senators, representatives, commissioners of agriculture and planters, after several hours' discussion, adopted the plan of Harry D. Wilson, commissioner of agriculture of Louisiana, in resolution form and forwarded it to Secretary Wallace in Washington.

Seventh Heat Wave Descends on England

Enid Wilson Tops Golfers With 76

Miss Van Wie, Miss Hicks and Miss Orcutt Are 2 Shots Behind.

EXMOOR CLUB, Highland Park, Ill., Aug. 28 (AP).—Ripping par to shreds over the final three holes with a spectacular finish that overtook a trio of America's greatest shot-makers, Enid Wilson, queen of England's fairways, captured the women's national golf championship medal at Exmoor today with the lowest total in 37 years of play.

Trailing the leaders and par by 1 shot at the sixteenth tee, the husky 23-year-old English champion blazed forth with two birdies and a finishing eagle for a record-breaking 76 and the medal. She had a margin of two shots over her closest American rivals, Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, defending titleholder; Maureen Orcutt, of Haworth, N. J., and Helen Hicks, of New York. The championship hasn't been won by a foreign entrant since Gladys Ravenscroft, of England, turned the trick 20 years ago.

Bea Gottlieb Falls.

Fatalities among the title favorites were exceptionally low in contrast to last year, when Miss Hicks failed to qualify in defense of her title. There were a few that faltered, but none of them were rated as serious championship contenders. Bea Gottlieb, Tuckahoe, N. Y., who got into the headlines recently by defeating the Prince of Wales, failed to qualify. Others, who failed, included Phyllis Buchanan, of Denver, trans-Mississippi champion; Mrs. Gregg Lifur, Los Angeles; Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis.; Edith Quier Reading, Pa., usually a contender, and Mrs. Joseph Palma, of Honolulu, three times Hawaiian champion.

Mrs. Haynes Gives Up.

Out of Tourney

Latona Is Ruled Out of Tennis Tourney

Government Net Chairman Acts; Playground Job Believed Cause.

ANTHONY LATONA, seeded No. 1 and considered one of the city's outstanding players, yesterday was barred by officials from participation in the Government employes' tennis tournament, Louis I. Doyle, referee and chairman of the tournament committee, stated yesterday.

Doyle said Latona's name had been withdrawn "after the committee had gone very carefully into every angle of the case" and that "no further statement would be forthcoming from the committee." It was learned last night that at least one member of the committee had not been consulted regarding the action taken.

From an authoritative source it was learned that the forced withdrawal of Latona was probably based on his activities in connection with his duties with the Municipal Playgrounds Department.

Explains Activities.

Assistant Director of Municipal Playgrounds Richard Tennyson, in a statement to The Post last night said: "There is absolutely no basis for any action against Latona based on his duties with the Playground Department. His activities cover all sports—baseball, track horseshoe pitching, tennis and every other branch of athletics. He has at no time acted in an official capacity as a tennis instructor, all such duties coming under the jurisdiction of our regular tennis instructor, Phil Degnan. Latona's duties in connection with tennis have been centered upon organizing and supervising teams and tournaments."

Latona stated that he was "completely in the dark as to the motives of the tourney official in withdrawing him from the tournament." He further stated that he would be unable to decide whether or not the matter would be placed in the hands of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association for settlement until he had heard from the committee upon what grounds the action was based.

Result of yesterday's play:

Nats Are Idle; Advance as N.Y. Bows

Two Southpaws, Stewart and Burke, to Hurl in Double-Header.

By Shirley L. Povich (Sports Editor The Post).

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 28.—Without moving a muscle, the Nats today showed a half-game profit in their pennant struggle, because over in Detroit the Yankees were being minced into a toothsome brand of Tiger meat by a 6-to-1 score, and the recapitulation this evening shows the Washington Club to be 8½ games out in front of the straggling procession.

The Nats were muscle-bound this afternoon by the pronouncement of Skipper Billy Evans, of the Good Ship Cleveland, that the barometer was falling and it looked like rain, so the festivities of the day would have to be deferred, and the two clubs play a double-header tomorrow, which would not be a bad idea, inasmuch as a twin-bill tomorrow will gross twice as much as two single games.

Little Rain Falls.

A good thimbleful of rain hadn't fallen before game time, but when Skipper Evans unsheathed his telescope and declared he saw a dark cloud hovering above the southwest shore of Lake Erie, he pronounced the game off before noon. The afternoon blossomed nice and sunny, but the athletes got their exercise only in the upholstered lobby.

As I was about to say, a couple of paragraphs above, eight and a half games at this stage of the race is a virtual guarantee that the Nats are "in." The Yankees now have about as much chance of overtaking Washington as a hand car has to catch the Twentieth Century Limited. If either comes to pass, I am open for suit.

Would Be Very Sad.

Just supposin' that the Nats win 16 and lose 15 of their remaining 31 games, which would indeed be a sad home-stretch finish for the Washington Club, then the Yankees are forced to win 25 while losing only 7 of their remaining 32 games to create a tie for the pennant.

That, I think, is asking very little of the Washington Club, and I think, is asking too much of the New York team, which is now playing only at a .590 pace. If the Nats are hearing the buzz of the pennant bee, there's a reason and it is that 8½-game lead.

The scheduling of tomorrow's double-header finds Manager Cronin well fortified with pitching talent and he will give the Indians a full southpaw dose by nominating Walter Stewart and Bobby Burke for the mound jobs.

Burke Earns Spot.

Stewart was due to pitch today's game and the extra day of rest is calculated to do him no small good, but Burke has earned a starting assignment by his clever work against the Tigers when he made his fourth start of the year and turned in his fourth win.

Thus, Moe Breg will divide the catching duties with Luke Sewell tomorrow inasmuch as Berg has handled the shoots of Burke in all of the latter's successes and has succeeded in curbing the tendency to wildness that in seasons past provided deep pitfalls for the skinny southpaw.

Sam Rice Confined To Cleveland Bed

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 28 (Spl.).—Sam Rice, 41-year-old outfielder of the Nats, was confined to his bed tonight under the surveillance of a doctor, whom Trainer Mike Martin called after the veteran Nat had complained of gastric disorders late this afternoon.

The doctor in attendance made a blood test and will make a report tomorrow.

Godwin vs. Knight Fight Postponed

Entire Twin City Card Held Over Until Tomorrow Because of Rain.

The leading contender for Maxie Rosenbloom's light-heavyweight crown, it seems, is neither Bob Godwin nor Joe Knight, but Kid Pluvius, the raving, boisterous galoot from nowhere in particular, who chalked up his third victory of the season last night. The Kid peered over the Twin City Arena inclosure and sprayed the place with a brief but sufficient rainstorm, that washed out the prize boxing show of the local season.

Matchmaker Charley Cornell postponed the entire card until tomorrow night. Godwin and Knight headline the bill with a 10-rounder for the right to meet Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion of the South, and 25 per cent of the gate receipts. The decision to put the bouts off until tomorrow was made in view of the fact that the NRA parade will be held tonight.

Pros Are Led By Houghton With 69

Out in 34 and back in 35, Houghton finished the 18-hole jaunt in 3 below par to top a field of 17 professionals from Baltimore and Washington. His card showed six 3s, one deuce and 7 birdies.

Giants Beaten On Card 7-Run Rally in 9th

O'Farrell Hits Two Home Runs as St. Louis Nine Wins Out, 12 to 8.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP).—A booming seven-run drive in the ninth inning gave the Cardinals a 12 to 8 victory over the Giants today, and ran the National League leaders' string of defeats to three in the past four games, with one tie.

There was no loss to the Giants in their efforts to keep ahead of the Braves, who were blanked by Cincinnati and remained six games behind, but in the battle, with the lead shuttling around half a dozen times, two of Bill Terry's pitching aces, Bud Parmelee and Hal Schumacher, took a cuffing.

Cavanaugh's Death Is Matter of Hours

Mansfield, Mass., Aug. 28 (AP). Time was running fast in the last quarter for Frank W. Cavanaugh tonight.

Doctors agreed it would take an effort as spectacular as any he engineered on the gridiron to keep football's "iron major" from hearing life's final whistle before many hours.

War wounds and the aftermath of a serious operation sapped the strength of the man who retired as a nationally famous football coach to seek rest and a restoration of his health in this small town on Massachusetts' south shore. He is 57 years old.

"Cav's" family, his wife and nine children, were gathered at his bedside awaiting the end while doctors administered stimulants in an effort to stave off death.

Allen Retires for Pinch-Hitter; Detroit Has 2 Big Innings.

DETROIT, Aug. 28 (AP).—Vic Sorrell, slender Tiger southpaw, came within an inning today of becoming the second pitcher to blank the Yankees in 334 games as he led Detroit to an easy 6-to-1 victory.

Sorrell pitched hitless ball for six innings and allowed only two hits up to the ninth. Then Dixie Walker tripled and Babe Ruth singled him home. Four hits were all Sorrell allowed as Detroit evened the series at two games all.

The Tigers had two big innings at the expense of Johnny Allen, who retired for pinch-hitter in the eighth, with Danny MacFayden finishing.

Score Four in Third.

Four runs developed in the third on walks to Hayworth and Rogell, Fox's single, doubles by Gehringer and Gerald Walker, and a wild pitch. In the seventh, Rogell's single and a brace of triples by Gehringer and Walker added the final pair.

Maryland's Turf Scene Shifts to Nearby Marlboro as Meeting Opens Today

Better Class Of Horses At Track

Stable Accommodations Crowded, With Bowie Taking Overflow.

As far as Washington is concerned, the 1933 fall racing season in Maryland opens today with the first program of the five-day meeting at Marlboro, down in Prince Georges County. Some few District fans have participated in the sport at Cumberland during the past week, but the annual session of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Fair Association has come to be known as "Washington's Own Meeting." Shortly after noon the string of hundreds of Capital-owned automobiles will be filing over the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge with the historic half-mile track as their destination. Post time for the first race is 2 o'clock.

Joseph B. Boyle, general manager of the organization which operates Marlboro and Bowie, and Thomas Kirby Lynch, assistant manager and treasurer, believe that they'll do a better business this year than they did in 1932. They are of the opinion that conditions, generally, are considerably better than they were last year, and argue that "gates" and mutuel handlers at the race-tracks figure to start climbing back to P. D. (predepression) standards.

Many Horses Ready.

The majority of the horses which spent last week in Cumberland were shipped over the week-end to Marlboro. Others have been there for some time, and still others have gotten in from tracks in various parts of the country. Track Superintendent Dick Pending found it utterly impossible to quarter all the horses shipped to the plant at Upper Marlboro, and was forced to divert more than 100 of them to Bowie.

The caliber of the thoroughbreds scheduled to race at Marlboro is higher than one usually finds at a half-mile track. Many of them are owned by Marylanders, but out-of-State owners figure to play a prominent part in the meeting. The book for the meeting calls for nine five- and one-half furlong dashes, 10 races at six-and-one-half furlongs, 14 at one-and-one-sixteenth miles, one of a mile and an eighth, and one at a mile and a quarter.

La Plata Feature.

The fifth race of the day—the La Plata—a mile-and-a-sixteenth test for 3-year-olds and upward, is to be the feature. The Mount Vernon, a 6½-furlong dash for 3-year-olds and upward, which is booked as the fourth event, will be the secondary feature.

Apprentice Jockey Rides Six Winners

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 28 (U.P.).—Jockey Leon (Buddy) Haas, 17-year-old apprentice rider, established a new local record by winning six of the seven races at Thistledown Park here today. He rode the winners of the first to the fifth races, inclusive, failed to finish in the money in the sixth, but came back in the seventh and concluding race of the day with an easy victory astride the favorite, Hypoluxo.

Haas, a native of Oklahoma, rode his first winner during the spring meeting at Riverside Park, Mo., this year. He has accepted 103 mounts so far this year, winning 22 races, finished second with 18 of his mounts and third on 12 occasions.

His longest-priced winner today was King Kelly in the fourth race, which paid $14 in the $2 straight mutuels.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

HENRY CHRISTOPHE, a slave boy who became king of the black kingdom of Haiti, impressed the English government with the military strength of his little land by one of the strangest peacetime military maneuvers ever staged. He had only 1,000 men unders arms—yet he marched a phantom army of 30,000 soldiers past a stand while awed English officials wondered at the ponderous strength of the black king's force. Henry based his hoax on the old truth that to Europeans all Negroes look alike.

He had only 1,000 men in his army—but each man had 30 different colorful uniforms.

Henry's display of military strength was not for display alone; he felt it was necessary to impress the English. The review was conducted before Sir Home Popham, English admiral whose West Indian fleet lay at anchor in the harbor of Cape Henry. Sir Home was paying the island kingdom a friendly visit—but at the same time he was to write his impressions for the foreign office.

The Haitian army, a company at a time, marched eight abreast before the king, Sir Home and other dignitaries. As each company passed from sight of the reviewing stand, the men broke ranks, hurriedly changed into different uniforms and returning through a secret tunnel to the starting point, passed again before Sir Home. All day long the troops passed by until Sir Home reported to his superiors that 30,000 well-trained troops had passed before him. Strange as it seems, he had seen only 1,000.

Dear Al: Marlboro Race Track.

Well, friend, I'll meet you by the water barrel. Yes, sir, they'll be racing today down here in Prince Georges County. I'm over that attack of air-sickness that followed my nonstop flight here from Hawthorne. Feeling fit and ready as some of the horses I've dug up for you. The Chicago charts show that Mike didn't do half bad yesterday while batting for me. So starting today we'll give the bang-tails the one-two punch. I have my eye on some good things and I'll pass them along as they appear in the entries. Get down early so we can look over the tobacco and corn exhibitions. BILL.

First race—Nora's Grace won by five lengths up at Cumberland. Meets much stiffer company in this but seems to have the goods. Clear Knight is the one to beat despite that 120 pounds. Showed that he is rounding into form up the line and gets a good post. Bohemian Grove, at tops, could lick this field. May need a race.

Second race—Horatio Hugh will have Cruz in the saddle and I predict a graduation for this baby. Received a little education up-State. An off track would help. Big Dipper ran a nice race last week and should be no worse than second. Scotty Don for the show.

Third race—Rhodius beat a pretty fair field at Belmont last spring and I'm taking this one off that race. Reported to be fit. Mud wouldn't hurt. Seaworthy and Rustic Cuba for the other money places.

Fourth race—Foul Tip has been away from action some time, but is far too good to overlook in this field. I can't find a work on her. Golden Princess raced well at Cumberland and will be ready if the top one isn't. Starry for the rest.

Fifth race—Sublevado upset the dope bucket on the major courses last Spring. That race last week indicates that we have a fit horse here. Can't see anything taking his number today unless Worthington is in much better shape than we believe. Sambo G. to take third money.

Seventh race—Rod Rack doesn't want much more opposition than he finds here. Raced into pretty good form up-State and this may be the spot they have selected. Last Gift and McDonald H. for the other cash awards.

Johnny Connelly Shoots 74 to Top Strong Field in 'Uptown' Golf Play

4 Tie for 2d, One Stroke In Rear

Young Star Has 13 Pars, With One Bad Hole on 37-37 Card.

FLASHING a steady brand of golf from tee to green, Johnny Connelly, diminutive public links star, clicked off a brace of 37's for an 18-hole total of 74 to capture the medal yesterday in the qualifying round of the annual "Uptown" tournament at Rock Creek.

Connelly charged to the front by a margin of one shot, preventing a five-way deadlock for the prize. Four municipal luminaries were hot on the medalist's heels. They are Harlan Will, the District champion, with 37—38; Claude Rippy, the former Shelby, N. C., ace, with 38—37; John Baer, with 38—37, and Walter Barrett, with 36—39.

Shoots 13 Pars.

Connelly, who tied Luther Steward, jr., for the medal in the Congressional invitation, had 13 pars to his credit. And 13 pars at Rock Creek yesterday were plenty good, considering the untrue putting surface of the greens and heavy fairways.

The medalist really had one bad hole, the seventh, where his putter betrayed him, resulting in a six. It was his only three-putt green of the day. He failed to birdie a hole.

Out in 36 and with a chance to win the medal, Walter Barrett went haywire on the par five fifteenth. Here he missed his third shot, three putted and wound up with a 7.

11 Players Break 80.

Eleven of the 16 first flight qualifiers broke 80. The boys considered the failure of Herman Allan and W. W. Seay to qualify an upset. Match play in the championship flight begins today. Two matches are slated. One is scheduled tomorrow and the 36-hole finals Thursday.

Three women golfers are in the field. Mrs. Mae Hill's 94 won her a place in the fourth flight. Mrs. T. M. Wilkinson, with 98, is in the third, while Miss Betty Garber made the fifth.

He Got Away . . . .

By Jean Monk.

THE big miracle of the recent storm was the cutting of that $1,000,000 inlet between the Atlantic Ocean and the Sinepatuxent Bay, just below Ocean City, Md. Ocean City is situated on an overgrown sandbar lying between the ocean and the bay, which varies in width from 300 feet to about a mile, and extends from Ocean City southward for a distance of 40 miles, almost to Chincoteague, Va.

A similar storm ten or more years ago cut a like inlet through this bar. If the new one is at the same place, it is about 5 miles south of the city. The big item is the fact that fish of every variety came through the old inlet into the bay. Still fishing at the inlet was excellent, as was fishing in the bay.

But that which the ocean gives, the ocean sometimes takes back again; for the inlet remained open only two or three years. While it is open, however, fishermen visiting Ocean City may expect every variety of fishing at its best, at close range, and inexpensive.

Hotel Still Operating.

A letter from A. H. G. Mears, proprietor of the famous fishing resort, Wachapreague, Eastern Shore of Virginia, dated August 25, says:

"The hurricane 23rd destroyed our docks, but the hotel is still operating." And on the 26th he wrote: "The storm is over. Fishing is on again, catches very encouraging. Several of our boats are in fishing shape and hotel normal."

Last Tuesday, when that 2-pound bluefish flounced unassisted into Capt. LeRoy Ward's boat, Herring Bay, he seemed to have started something. For they have been flouncing in by the hundreds since that time, in all other instances, however, assisted by the fishermen.

Bring Back Sack Full.

The fishing tackle department of Rudolph & West Co., 1332 New York avenue northwest, reports that a party leaving from the store struck the bluefish off guard out from Herring Bay last Friday and brought home a sack full of them. The fishermen were back in the store for more and better tackle and bigger and stronger drones. Big ones there!

Last Saturday, J. O. Cardin, Northeast Savings Bank, and Mrs. Cardin; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Lees; Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher and George Fletcher fished off Tall Timbers, Piney Point, from 5 till 7 p. m. in a rowboat, about 1 mile out, and landed 17 bluefish still fishing. They used spot for bait. The fish were from 1 to 2½ pounds in size.

Barber & Ross, Eleventh and G streets northwest, reported the departure of a party from their store yesterday for Sharps Island. They, too, had lost all their fishing equipment on a trial trip and were back for a complete supply.

Are Biting Aplenty.

Ollie Atlas, proprietor, Atlas Sports Store, 927 D street northwest, says reports reaching his store are that not only the blues but trout and hardhead are raring to go and are going whenever and wherever they can get a bait to go at. Ollie says splendid reports have come in from Galeville, Shady Side, Herring Bay and down as far as Chesapeake Beach, the last two days.

Capt. Warren Denton, Brooms Island, phoned in yesterday morning to advise that trout are appearing in remarkable numbers in that vicinity, in the Patuxent River. Brooms is 17 miles above Solomons.

This is exceptional for the reason that trout are not in the habit of taking bait while the water is muddy—and if the Patuxent wasn't muddy Sunday, it wasn't the Patuxent. So, what will happen when it clears up?

Frank Del Vecchio, bait and tackle merchant, 1212 Eleventh street southeast, says he has had reports from Sandgate, across the Patuxent from Brooms, that trout are striking in surprising numbers at that place.

Peacock Gets 67 At Burning Tree

Mrs. Moody and Helen Jacobs Both Under Physicians' Care

NEW YORK, Aug. 28 (AP).—While the controversial features of Helen Wills Moody's dramatic default to Helen Hull Jacobs in the National Tennis championship finals continued to agitate sporting circles today on both sides of the Atlantic, it developed that both participants completely disregarded medical advice by competing at all.

Mrs. Moody, storm-center of the debate over the decision to withdraw within three games of losing the final set at love, was well on her way to California, accompanied by a nurse and friend, after an admission that she wished she had followed her doctor's counsel and not even entered the tournament.

Miss Jacobs, newly acclaimed for her greatest championship victory, was still at Forest Hills under the care of her physician, Dr. Thomas C. Chalmers, who ended the mystery about blonde Helen's condition with a statement specifying details and explaining why it was necessary for her to use stimulants throughout the tournament.

"Miss Jacobs played throughout the tournament against my advice," said Dr. Chalmers' statement.

Clean Rassling Ordered by Turner

Threat of Ban Here Challenge to Zaharias and Garibaldi in Bout.

WITH no athletic body of any kind having jurisdiction over rassling here, the boys having been getting too rough even for Promoter Joe Turner to tolerate, and no one ever accused him of being gentle when he was active in the game. Having reached this conclusion, Turner has decided to do something about it.

"I don't mind the boys keeping up with the times and showing fight and pep, but I'm against unfair tactics and realize that if I do not do a little cleaning up, some one is likely to be seriously injured and then the game will be killed here. There's got to be some sportsmanship shown and unfair tactics have got to be cut out. The boys have been taking advantage of the fact that there is no controlling athletic body here and have been getting away with murder.

"So I just want to say," concluded Turner, "that from now on rasslers who use unfair tactics or who rough up the referees are going to be banned from future cards here—from one to six months, according to how far they go off the line."

Challenge Zaharias—Garibaldi

Coming on the eve of the George Zaharias—Gino Garibaldi bout at the Stadium Thursday night, it looks as though this is a direct challenge to this pair. Both are rough and tough and seem to get along on the mat like a couple of strange buildogs. Each has a victory over the other, in each case while foul protests were being lodged by the ultimate loser.

As already mentioned, Turner does not mind ethical roughness but there has been considerable kneeing, gouging, finger-ripping and strangling of late, to say nothing of manhandling referees, and both Zaharias and Garibaldi have been warned that these are taboo from now on.

Thursday's show is being staged for the benefit of the Firemen's Parade fund and a good supporting card has been arranged.

Giant Parade To End Gala NRA Program

The Blue Eagle soars tonight as Washingtonians hail the approach of better times with their celebration of National Recovery Day.

Fireworks, speeches, music and a mammoth parade are features of the program. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the NRA, will lead the celebration with a tribute to the President's recovery program.

Promptly at 7:30 p. m. the parade—nearly 100,000 strong—will move up Pennsylvania avenue. It will pass the reviewing stand on Constitution avenue between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets as a climax to a program of music and civic exercises.

Officials Will Review.

National leaders and officials will be in the stand. Ceremonies on the Ellipse will begin at 7 p. m.

Planting of a tree from Mount Vernon will open the exercises. Mrs. Eleanor Washington Howard, last member of the Washington family born at Mount Vernon, will officiate. A talk will follow by Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, general chairman of the arrangements committee.

Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce will speak, followed by Gen. Johnson. Music by the Army Band, prayers by Army and Navy chaplains and glee club selections will conclude the exercises.

Fireworks at Monument.

Form at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Up Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth street, to Constitution avenue to Seventeenth street. Disperse at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue.

Floats, service units and bands will form the line of march. Special lighting effects will be used along the waterfront. Reproduction of a war-time scene will feature the Monument Grounds celebration. The program will be broadcast over Nation-wide hookups.

Legion Auxiliary Meets.

Plans for participation of the American Legion Auxiliary in the NRA drive here were started last night as all local units opened a two-day convention in the Red Cross Chapter House, 1730 E street northwest.

Cooperation with the recovery program was promised by Mrs. Martin Dyer, president of the District Department.

Details will be completed at the final meeting tonight, when department officers will be elected. Last night's session was devoted to ritual and preparation of resolutions.

Mrs. Clarence Schall, national vice president; William Kehoe, acting District commander of the legion; Edward Marthill, member of the national executive committee; Mrs. Leon Arnold and Mrs. Sue Mins, past auxiliary presidents, and Mrs. Dorothy Harper were guests of honor at a luncheon at the Mayflower.

Labor Names NRA Group.

R. A. Dickson, president of the Central Labor Union, announced yesterday the appointment of a committee of local labor officials to aid in a final drive for the signatures of all employers on the President's reemployment agreement. Those appointed are:

John Cookman, Robert Lester, Cecil B. Mears, William Harland, C. Callan, John Botts, Frank Welkel, George J. Simmons, E. J. Toome, Edward Faulconer, Agnes King, Albert Neville, J. D. Clerks' Group Backs McCarl In Decisions

Upholds Rulings on Pay for Retired Employes Now Working.

Decisions of Comptroller General McCarl on reemployment of retired federal employes were upheld last night by the National Federation of Federal Employes.

One of the decisions held that compensation to retired persons reemployed by the National Recovery Administration should be the same as that of other employes, with 3½ per cent being deducted at least for the present.

Under the economy act $3,000 a year is the total that may be paid in civilian and retirement pay to reemployed officers, and if civilian pay is in excess of $3,000 retirement pay may be waived during employment.

Firemen Parade Benefit Fight Set for Tomorrow Night

The grudge fight between Joe Knight and Bobby Godwin for the benefit of the National Firemen's Labor Day parade will take place tomorrow night at Twin City arena. It was postponed from last night owing to rain.

Both battlers expressed the same reaction—that it would give each one more time to prepare for a severe beating of the other.

Because of a rush for tickets as early as Monday morning, Matchmaker Charley Cornell has ordered more seats for tomorrow night.

Although one of the parade attractions was delayed by bad weather, Joe Turner, wrestling promoter, is banking on a clear, warm night for his supermatch Thursday for the same cause.

He has Gino Garibaldi meeting his archenemy, George Zaharias, in the main fight. This alone should bring the customers out.

Tickets on sale at Turner's office in the Annapolis Hotel are going fast, Turner said last night. The bouts begin at 8 p. m., Griffith Stadium.

Although it's five days away, Jimmy Lake and the parade committee are busy with their plans for the midnight show at the Gayety night before Labor Day.

Worried Parents Retrieve Wandering Son After Police End Trek.

Across Taft Bridge he walked. Nobody seemed to notice his lack of maturity. Maybe it was because he was red headed.

Bo finally landed at the Third Precinct station. There he gave his divided but enthusiastic attention to a typewriter and a drinking fountain. Both were "O.K." Later an ice cream cone entered his affections.

Two hours later, his worried parents claimed Bo, the red head. They are Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Russell.

Void Contract, Bride Will Ask

D. C. Heads to Consider Canceling of Project in Wage Dispute.

The District Commissioners will meet this morning to consider canceling the Catalano Construction Corporation's contract to build the Phelps Vocational School.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride said last night that he would recommend the cancellation because of the firm's apparent inability to settle bricklayers' claims for back wages.

The Commissioners have twice granted the company an extension of time to make a settlement.

Representatives of the bricklayers, the construction firm and the Globe Indemnity Co., which bonded the project, did not appear for a scheduled conference with Mr. Bride yesterday afternoon.

The Catalano Co. has failed to pay back wages to bricklayers during the time when it admitted they were receiving less than the $1.50 per hour set by the Bacon-Davis act.

District Probe Asked in Boost Of Bread Price

King Requests Inquiry to Determine if Increase Is Justified.

Senator King, chairman of the Senate District Committee, yesterday asked the District Commissioners to determine whether the increase of one cent per pound loaf in bread prices here was justified.

Chairman King said he had received many requests that the price raise be investigated and he suggested that Corporation Councel William W. Bride make a preliminary inquiry.

Mr. Bride said it would be difficult for him to conduct the investigation in his office. He would suggest, he said, the United States Attorney's office take it over because it involves Federal laws.
